SOVIET PEACE TERMS SHOCK FINLAND

PACT GRANTS MOSCOW MANY PRIVILEGES

MOSCOW, March 13—A peace treaty ending the short but bloody Russo-Finnish war today gave the Soviet Union three large slices of Finnish territory but permitted the little Baltic nation to retain its independence.

A Soviet government communique announced that the Finnish peace delegation had signed a peace treaty at 2:30 a. m. after a dramatic midnight meeting with Dictator Josef Stalin in the Kremlin, terminating the hostilities that have raged from the Mannerheim Line to the Polar Front since the Russians invaded Finland November 30.

Under the peace terms, Russia obtains the Carelian Isthmus, the beleaguered and wrecked city of Viborg (Viipuri) and the territory adjacent to the shores of Lake Ladoga.

In addition, the Russians will build a railroad across Finland's "wasp waist" to the Gulf of Bothnia.

Other terms drastically reduce the Finnish navy and call for a Russo-Finnish trade pact as well as establishment of a Russian military and naval base on the Hango Peninsula at the strategic western entrance of the Gulf of Finland.

In return, the U. S. S. R. undertakes to guarantee the independence of Finland.

More severe than the Russian demands on Finland before the hostilities began, the terms as announced officially covered these points:

1—Immediate cessation of hostilities.

2—Cession of the entire Carelian Isthmus to Russia along with the city of Viborg (Viipuri) and territory along the western and northern shores of Lake Ladoga, including the towns of Sortavala, Suojarvi and Kexholm, and islands in the Gulf of Finland and Viborg Bay.

3—A stipulation that both contracting parties will refrain from any attack on each other and will not conclude alliances or participate in coalitions directed against each other.

4—Russia will lease the Hango Peninsula for

30 years for an annual rental of $128,000 for the purpose of creating a Russian naval base.

5—Russia will withdraw its troops from the Petsamo region in northern Finland. Finnish naval units and coastal defenses in the Petsamo region will be sharply limited.

6—Free transit for Russian citizens and goods across the Petsamo region between Russia and Norway.

7—Construction of a railway, this year if possible, across the Finnish "waist-line" to facilitate transportation of goods between Russia and Sweden.

8—Russia and Finland will enter negotiations for conclusion of a trade treaty.

9—The peace treaty becomes effective on signature and is subject to subsequent ratification. In addition, it was stipulated that Russian troops will be allowed to move up to the new Russo-Finnish frontiers by 10 a. m. on March 15.

Cession of the Carelian Isthmus will give Russia

full possession of the Mannerheim Line of fortifications, where the snows now cover the bodies of thousands of Finns and Red army soldiers slain in battle.

The pact was signed for Russia by Premier-For- eign Commissar V. M. Molotov, A. A. Zhdanov, a member of the presidium of the supreme council, and General Vassilievski.

For Finland the signers were Premier Risto Rytty, Juho Paasivik, minister without portfolio, Gen. Karl Walden, member of the Finnish defense council, and Vaino Voionmaa, a member of parliament. Under terms of a protocol attached to the agreement, a neutral zone of one kilometer was to be established between the Russo-Finnish battle fronts as soon as hostilities ceased.

Between March 15 and 22 the Finns were to retreat and the Russians advance seven kilometers a day until the new frontier demarcation lines are reached.

Minister Tanner Tells Nation That War Has Ended; Carelian Isthmus Including Mannerheim Line to Become Russia's

PARLIAMENT MUST RATIFY PACT

Shortage Of Materials And Men Blamed For Nation's Submission; Problem Concerning Transport Of Allied Troops Discussed

BULLETIN

HELSINKI, March 13—The Finnish parliament today ratified the treaty of peace signed in Moscow last night, bringing to an end Finland's heroic struggle for existence against an enemy fifty times her size. Members of the diet agreed that in the absence of practicable military aid from abroad, the government had no choice but to agree to cessation of hostilities on Soviet Russia's terms, and at 11 a. m. the order to cease fire was given on all fronts.

HELSINKI, March 13—Black-bordered extra editions of Finnish newspapers, flags flying at half-mast and a tearful radio broadcast by Foreign Minister Vaino Tanner told the people of Finland today that their heroic war of existence against Soviet Russia had come to an end on the Kremlin's own terms.

For the first time in three and one-half months of the bloodiest warfare since Verdun, the guns were silenced from Finland's Arctic coast to the deep snows of Southern Carelia beneath which still lie thousands of uncounted Russian and Finnish dead.

The peace pact signed early this morning in the Kremlin still awaits ratification by the Finnish parliament.

But Tanner made it clear in his broadcast to a sorrowing nation that the war is over and done with.

Finland's inability to obtain adequate military help from abroad, due to the difficulties of transport, compelled the government to cede Russia large blocks of Finnish soil, Tanner said, and the country no longer could hold out single-handed against the Red colossus.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: An unverified report in Copenhagen said that the Russians had threatened a war of "total extinction" against Finland unless the peace terms were accepted.)

Never has a peace been greeted with such strange emotions as those which swept Finland today. No Celebration Here

In the past, news of an armistice has meant riotous celebrations, a great nationwide surge of relief. This one came as a paralyzing shock to a nation which had pledged itself to fight until death.

Even after Tanner had concluded his broadcast and announced that President Kysti himself would speak to the nation, the people found it hard to believe. The streets were filled with weeping men and women who read the black-rimmed newspapers with unbelieving eyes.

Best available information in still-censored Helsinki, however, was that surrender to the Russian demands was inevitable.

The life-blood of the Finnish army had been sapped by eleven weeks of terrible warfare. The Russian offensive on the Carelian (Continued on Page Two)

FINNISH RED CHIEFTAIN AND CABINET EXECUTED?

COPENHAGEN, March 13—Otto Kuusinen, Finnish Communist leader who served briefly as prime minister of a puppet Soviet established at Terijoki, Finland, has been executed at the Kremlin, according to Stockholm today.

The entire Finnish section of the Communist International likewise has disappeared, these reports stated.

Unverified dispatches received here said that during the negotiations at the Kremlin, the Soviets threatened a war of "total extinction" against Finland if the peace terms were not accepted.

10 KNOWN DEAD AS STORM HITS LOUISIANA AREA

Shreveport In Center Of Tornado; Rich Man One Of Victims

SHREVEPORT, La., March 13—At least ten persons—five whites and five Negroes—were dead today and 32 others were suffering from injuries as the result of a tornado which swept through Shreveport last night, police announced today following a survey.

Property damage was estimated at upward of $1,000,000.

The identified dead were Mr. and Mrs. John Bauguss, Mrs. Helene Armstrong, E. G. Woodward and T. K. Giddens.

Most seriously injured of the 32 hurt in the storm was the 8-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bauguss, Betty. Her condition was regarded as critical.

Giddens, reputedly one of the wealthiest men in Shreveport, was killed by a falling tree on one of his farms near Shreveport.

Streets were strewn with fallen trees, broken telephone and power lines and debris from damaged buildings. Half the city was in darkness last night.

Telephone service between the storm-stricken city and New Orleans and Dallas, cut off for several hours, was restored early today.

The freakish storm, which howled with unprecedented fury about this vicinity did not appear to have done much damage elsewhere, destroyed between 25 and (Continued on Page Two)

CRIPPLED STUDENT KILLS AGED COUPLE, ENDS LIFE

CHICAGO, March 13—Double murder of an aged couple, an attempted attack on their 17-year-old granddaughter, and suicide today figured in a tragic last episode for 17-year-old Howard Larimer, brilliant student at a Chicago School for Crippled Children.

The youth last night entered the apartment of Hugh Welch, 72, and his wife, Mary, 70. He fatally shot both of them. When the granddaughter, Bernadette Welch, returned home, he attempted to attack her, but she screamed and escaped.

He then put a bullet through his right temple. At the school, it was stated that Larimer, who wore a brace on one leg, was a brilliant student but at times erratic.

Oklahoma Governor May Call Guard in Dam War

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 13—Oklahoma's red-haired governor, Leon C. Phillips, today was determined to call out the national guard to enforce his claims against the federal government in the Grand River power dam project.

The governor, who is demanding an $850,000 payment to the state for highways and bridges to be flooded when the dam is completed, announced troops will establish martial law sometime today to prevent the flooding.

The $20,000,000 hydro-electric plant, built by the Federal Public Works Administration, was scheduled to be completed within a few weeks. The dam is in northeastern Oklahoma.

Gov. Phillips declared he will prevent the scheduled completion by refusing to permit the last of the concrete to be poured. It will be impossible to impound the water for the dam's reservoir until this is done.

A long-standing feud which grew out of a demand that an Oklahoman be placed in charge of the project, has been waged between the state and PWA. Several times, the governor threatened to call out troops to protect private property rights. He refused a PWA suggestion that differences be settled in court.

The feud resulted December 1 in the resignation of R. V. L. Wright, manager of the project. Since then, the five-man board in charge of the work, all Oklahomans, and the PWA, which must approve the appointment, have been at loggerheads over the selection of Wright's successor.

The shipments will be made over the German railway lines obviating the possibility of seizure by Britain.

Announcement of the agreement, signed here today and personally worked out by Premier Mussolini and German Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop during the latter's visit to Rome, came as a surprise.

It had been widely reported that an Anglo-Italian coal agreement was being formulated under which Italy would obtain her coal from Britain. This agreement was reported in prospect after England last week released 13 Italian vessels carrying 100,000 tons of German coal which had been seized by British contraband control authorities.

MRS. WINIFRED WALLACE TO RUN FOR RECORDER

Mrs. Winifred Wallace, South Court Street, announced Wednesday that she has entered the Democratic primaries as a candidate for Pickaway County recorder. She drew her nominating petition Tuesday afternoon from the board of elections.

Mrs. Wallace is the second Democrat in the race, her opponent being Mrs. Florence T. Campbell, who is serving her first term.

With the deadline of March 15 drawing nearer more candidates are filling their petitions. Election Board Clerk Claude Kraft announced Wednesday that Harry Griner, Democrat, running for county engineer; Robert G. Colville, Democrat and third-term candidate for treasurer; Dr. E. L. Montgomery, Democrat, running for the first term as coroner; Sterling M. Lamb, Republican, candidate for first term as prosecuting attorney, and William J. Green, Republican, running for first term as commissioner, had filed their petitions in the last 24 hours.

Friday at 6:30 p. m. is the deadline.

DURBIN ASSAILS G. O. P. SOLONS, JOINS CONTEST

COLUMBUS, March 13—Francis W. Durbin, of Lima, today formally announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Congressman-at-Large. In an announcement at Columbus, the Allen County Democratic chairman attacked the two Republican Congressmen-at-Large, George H. Bender and L. L. Marshall. Durbin said:

"I will run on a Roosevelt platform and will have as my main issue 'Humanity versus the Golden Calf.' The present Gold Dust twins of Cleveland, Bender and Marshall, have but two accomplishments to their credit; Bender has spent his time in Cuyahoga County fighting Republicans. Marshall has become the pin-ball champion in Washington."

Durbin asserted that both Bender and Marshall had voted against "the humane and progressive policies of this administration."

AGED MAN, QUESTIONED IN MURDER CASE, DIES

COLUMBUS, March 13—Death today eliminated a possible clue in the assault-murder of Miss Alice Lauterbach, 75-year-old Columbus spinster.

Sgt. C. C. Cole, of the detective homicide bureau, disclosed that an elderly man who might have been able to shed light on the brutal crime was found dead in jail. Death was apparently due to natural causes but an autopsy was to be performed.

Five suspects, including a 65-year-old junkman who once proposed marriage to the spinster, were freed.

EIGHT EASTERN VOTES PLEDGED TO ROOSEVELT

New Hampshire Gives F. D. Margin, But Republican Gains Bigger Edge

WASHINGTON, March 13—President Roosevelt's third term boom today had netted eight convention votes from the New Hampshire primary, although the state's voters disclosed a three-to-one preference for a Republican occupant of the White House next year.

All told, the magic of Mr. Roosevelt's name failed to impress the "Down East" voters. The President won his convention votes handsily, but the Democrats showed some antipathy for a third term by giving handsome support to Postmaster-General James A. Farley and Vice President John N. Garner. The most significant development of the primary was the revelation of an overwhelming Republican sentiment in the state. Although Mr. Roosevelt carried New Hampshire in 1936, the primary showed he would be well beaten there in 1940.

The Republicans elected an un-instructed delegation with eight votes to the G. O. P. convention but the delegates themselves were pledged, privately, to their colleague, Senator H. Styles Bridges, as a favorite son. Bridges led the whole Republican slate of delegates.

Bridges, with 32,583 votes, ran ahead of the President more than three to one. The plurality against Mr. Roosevelt was four-and-a-half to one when the votes for Bridges were added to the Democratic vote for Farley, Garner and the unpledged delegate.

Farley's vote total was just under 5,000 votes, while Garner and the unpledged candidate gathered about 4,000 votes each. The 13,000-vote total of these three, added to Bridges 32,000, accounted for 45,000 votes to the President's 10,000.

New Deal leaders of the third term boom drew consolation from (Continued on Page Two)

DIZ DEAN SIGNS WITH CUBS FOR SERVICE IN 1940

CHICAGO, March 13—Dizzy Dean has come to terms with the Chicago Cubs and will not "starve" through the 1940 baseball season, as he had promised to do unless given the contract he demanded, it was revealed today.

Dean, who was believed to have been offered $10,000 for the season while holding out for $15,000, apparently was highly pleased by the final terms, reported to be about $11,000.

The pitcher ironed out his difficulties with the Cubs in a telephone conversation from his home in Texas last night, and sealed the issue today with a telegram to the Cubs' Chicago office.

It was believed Dean would depart for the Cubs' training quarters in California as soon as possible.

It was considered likely his new contract probably would call for a bonus should Dean prove to have overcome the arm trouble that kept him on the bench most of last year.

Mrs. Lawrence Warner Killed In Auto Crash

Circleville Woman, 55, Victim Of Accident In Warsaw, Ind.; Others Not Seriously Hurt

Mrs. Dora Warner, 55, wife of Lawrence Warner, manager of the Pickaway Grain Co., was killed instantly before noon Wednesday in an automobile accident in Warsaw, Ind. Details of the accident were not learned in Circleville.

Mrs. Warner, who had visited for several days with a sister, Mrs. Ida Compton, Naperville, Illinois, was returning home with Mrs. W. D. Leist and her son, Earl, of Washington Township, and a Rev. Mr. Jones of Columbus. Earl Leist was reported to have been driving the automobile which carried the local party. None of the others was reported to have been seriously hurt.

The Warner home is at 490 East Main Street. Surviving besides the husband are three children, Mrs. Leona Storts of Canal Winchester and Melvin and Oakley Warner of the home.

The M. S. Rinehart funeral car was sent to Warsaw Wednesday afternoon to remove Mrs. Warner's body to Circleville.

JUDGE INFORMED ATTORNEY TRIES TO 'DATE' JUROR

CINCINNATI, March 13—Judge Dudley Outcalt today set March 25 for the rehearing case of an $150,000 alienation suit which terminated abruptly when a woman juror asserted a socially prominent attorney spectator tried to "date" her during the trial.

At the same time, the judge appointed a special committee of the Cincinnati Bar Association to consider contempt proceedings against Mrs. Ann Jones, juror-mother of a small son, and Philip J. Schneider, the attorney.

The suit was brought by Dr. Virgil H. Sergeant, Isleita, Co-shooton County, O., against Mr. and Mrs. William Rhodes Perkins, Cincinnati. Sergeant charged that Mr. and Mrs. Perkins, his parents-in-law, caused his wife to divorce him. Schneider is a defendant in a collateral $50,000 suit filed by Sergeant on the grounds he assertedly conspired in the alienation.

Asked if Schneider ever signalled her while she was in the jury box, Mrs. Jones replied that he once held "two fingers down" this way, and she illustrated.

NURMI, MAKI CONTINUE THEIR AMERICAN TOUR

CHICAGO, March 13—"My country still needs help." With that explanation, Paavo Nurmi, Finland's onetime king of distance runners, today declared that the Finnish-Russian peace will make no difference in the nationwide exhibition tour he is making with Taisto Maki, another "flying Finn," to aid his country.

"The money raised from now on will go for the rehabilitation of those places hardest hit by the war," Naylor Stone, American representative for the runners, said.

Nurmi was glum when informed of the peace terms, declaring they were "no good" for Finland. Maki, who had been worried about the safety of his wife in Helsinki, was jubilant.

Maki is to run a three mile race against Tommy Deckard, former Indiana star, in his second American appearance here Friday night. He is to run a 2-mile against Walter Mehl, of Wisconsin, at Kansas City Monday night. Nurmi is acting as his coach.

LANCASTER, March 13—Fire swept through the town hall at nearby Baltimore today, causing damage estimated at $2,000. Most of the damage was done to a theatre housed in the building.

SWEDES URGED TO SAFEGUARD LAND'S BORDERS

STOCKHOLM, March 13—Shocked by terms of the Soviet-Finnish peace, the Swedish press today branded the Moscow treaty "a peace of violence" and called on the government to increase Sweden's armed forces.

The newspaper Social Demokraten, organ of the majority party in the Swedish government, drew from the peace terms the conclusion that "it must awaken the last pacifist" among the Swedes.

REDS TO TAKE BIG TERRITORY IN AGREEMENT

Foreign Minister Informs People That Hostilities Have Been Ended

Isthmus, it was learned for the first time, took a toll of 30,000 dead and countless wounded, while at least this same number had been killed on other fronts before the final Russian "big push" got under way.

The extra editions which appeared on the streets today in mourning garb carried full terms of the Soviet-dictated peace. With them in black and white was printed confirmation of Tanner's announcement that the armistice became effective at 11 a. m. and that all fighting between the Soviet Red army and Finland's valiant defenders had ceased.

So great was Finland's grief at the conclusion of the war that Finnish flags on all public buildings in Helsinki were flown at half-mast immediately after Tanner's broadcast.

Finland's troops will withdraw five miles per day until the new Russo-Finnish frontiers, agreed on by the peace negotiators in Moscow, have been reached. Under these terms, Russia receives the entire Carelian Isthmus including Viborg (Viipuri) and the Mannerheim Line, territory adjacent to the shores of Lake Ladoga and other sweeping concessions.

Tanner's radio announcement of these details was the first official Finnish declaration to the people that peace negotiations had ended the fighting that began last November 30.

Peace Price Severe

But even before his announcement was made, the Russian peace terms had become known, and Helsinki was shocked by the severity of the Russian price for peace.

Expressions of bitterness were heard on all sides and there was even a faint possibility that Finland's parliament might refuse to ratify the peace agreement.

Tanner, in a 20-minute broadcast, reviewed the peace conditions which he said were accepted by the government but were subject to ratification by the Finnish parliament.

"We were not responsible for the war," he said. "We did not believe it would break out, but it did and our country was forced to defend itself."

Tanner said that despite the efforts of the army, Finland had been short of materials and men.

Extensive supplies of materials were received from abroad, he said, but the country still lacked sufficient men. Tanner referred to Sweden's refusal of direct military aid as "this negative Swedish attitude."

"Some time ago," said Tanner, "Finland was offered military help by the Western Powers."

Troop Transport Vital
"This plan was closely examined by Finnish military authorities who found one weak point, namely the question of transport of troops."

Authoritative circles said that "even if the Finnish delegation in Moscow has power to sign a pact with Russia," the agreement must be ratified either by two successive parliamentary votes or, in an emergency, by a single vote with a majority of five-sixths.

(An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Stockholm said it was expected that negotiations regarding the future security of Finland will be opened shortly — if they have not already begun.)

The Finnish parliament, in one of the stormiest sessions in its history, received the Russian terms with anger and amazement.

In a bomb-proof shelter outside the capital where the meeting was held, the members charged that the delegation to Moscow was authorized to sign a truce with undue haste.

While a refusal to ratify was considered possible, the weight of informed opinion was that the Parliament would agree to the Russian terms in the end.

But it was clear that the members were staggered by the Russian demands for the whole Carelian Isthmus, the Lake Ladoga shore and sweeping commercial privileges for Russia in Finland.

an announcement by Rep. Christopher Sullivan, top Indian at Tammany Hall, that the President would be supported by the Hall if he sought a third term. Sullivan also predicted Mr. Roosevelt would carry New York state if nominated for a third term.

This pleased third termers, because New York has 47 electoral votes, while New Hampshire has only four.

Sullivan was asked the direct question whether Tammany would support Roosevelt for a third term. He replied:

"I'd go along with him."

"Would Roosevelt carry New York for a third term?"

"I imagine so," replied Sullivan. "He is still very popular."

Sullivan said New York would send an unopposed delegation to the Democratic convention, but he plainly indicated it would vote for Roosevelt if the President sought a third term. Sullivan said the New York delegation would be "very friendly to Farley" in the event the President's name is not submitted to the convention.

Meanwhile, Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes was to reach San Francisco today to smooth out third-term difficulties among the Democrats in California. Ickes went West under instruction from the New Deal to negotiate peace between Gov. Culbert Olson and former Senator William Gibbs McAdoo. They are in a contest for leadership of a third term slate in California's Democratic primary.

STATE HIGHWAY TRAFFIC FACES MORE DANGERS

COLUMBUS, March 13—Rain, which turned to sleet in below freezing temperatures and covered roads in the northwest and north-central portions of the state with a thin sheet of ice, was reported today by the state highway patrol.

Officials at the Union Bus Terminal in Columbus reported that the slippery road conditions necessitated the cancelling of one scheduled run through Postoria and Defiance.

The highway patrol said all roads in the two sections were open but advised motorists to proceed with extreme caution.

The weather forecast was for rain with slowly rising temperatures Wednesday following by rain and possibly snow and colder temperatures Thursday.

UPPER SANDUSKY, March 13—Scores of motorists were marooned in Upper Sandusky overnight by a severe sleet storm, which made highway travel hazardous. F. L. Ulrich, 28, suffered a fractured skull in an auto accident north of town. At the order of the state highway department, no school buses ventured out on the roads today.

FUNK DIVORCE FIGHT SUBMITTED TO COURT

After several petitions had been filed and withdrawn and refilled, the divorce case of Hirschel (Jim) Funk vs. Sarah Funk came before the Court of Common Pleas Wednesday.

The charges in the petition which Funk filed were gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty. Mrs. Funk answered the charges and filed a cross petition.

Many persons were in the courtroom as the plaintiff's attorney, Joseph W. Adkins, started calling the witnesses. Tom A. Renick is the attorney defending Mrs. Funk.

CARRIE A. GOLDFREDERICK DIES IN COLUMBUS HOME

Funeral services will be conducted Thursday in Columbus with burial in Forest Cemetery, Circleville, for Mrs. Carrie Althart Goldfrederick, 79, wife of Adolph Goldfrederick. They were former residents of Circleville. Mrs. Goldfrederick died Monday at her home, 1030 Highland Avenue, Columbus.

The rites will be conducted in the W. C. Chamberlain Funeral Home, 646 Neil Avenue.

Surviving are the husband, two sons, Richard of Chicago and Raymond of Columbus; a grandson, a nephew and a niece.

GYPSY MEDLEY

A medley of some of the most glamorous gypsy tunes ever written will be Maestro Andre Kostelanetz' orchestral show-piece on the "Tune-Up Time" broadcast of March 18.

He will play selections from three of the popular operettas of Emmirich Kalman, one of the big-three composers of the Viennese school of light opera along with Franz Lehár and Oscar Straus. Kalman was inspired to write his operetta, "Sari," by a true Hungarian story of a gypsy fiddler with thirty musical sons, most of whom grew up to become rivals of their father. In his Kalman gypsy fantasy, Conductor Kostelanetz will present the famous waltz from "Sari," "Will You Forget" from "The Rivalry Girl," and "Czardas" and "Play Gypsies" from "Countess Maritza."

As a second orchestral feature, Conductor Kostelanetz will direct his 45 musicians in a melodious arrangement of the seasonally popular "April in Paris."

The "Tune-Up Time" chorus will be heard on the broadcast in a novelty glee-club type of number which includes an Irish, a French, and an American folk song and three close harmony ballads. In the order indicated, these selections will be "There Was An Old Man," "Frere Jacques," "Three Blind Mice," "Bells of Onsey," "The Bell Doth Toll" and "Lovely Evening."

Baritone Tony Martin will solo in three popular songs of the day—the first, "Too Romantic," a song introduced on "Tune-Up Time" a few weeks ago and now a leading hit. With the chorus, Tony will also sing a new Cole Porter ballad named "I've Got My Eyes On You," and the popular "When You Wish Upon A Star" from "Pinocchio."

GOVERNOR FILES HIS PAPERS FOR ANOTHER TERM

COLUMBUS, March 13—Asserting he had kept his 1938 campaign promises and declaring he planned to continue his "economy" administration, Governor Bricker today filed petitions for renomination to a second term.

The Republican chief executive, who had been mentioned as a "dark horse" GOP presidential possibility, filed petitions with the secretary of state bearing 153,000 signatures from 83 counties.

"On the ninth day of January, 1939, in the inaugural address," said Bricker, "was this statement: 'Ohio must and shall meet her obligations and operate within her income without new or increased taxes.' Over a year has passed since that date. The promise has been strictly kept."

"It is my belief that the people of Ohio want that kind of government continued. In declaring my candidacy, I pledge to the people of Ohio a continuance of that kind of administration."

Bricker averred his administration had been able to operate "in the black" and still pay off alleged deficits of the previous regime by practicing rigid economy. He added that all "political parasites and chiselers" had been removed from state jobs.

COUNTY SCHOOL TEACHERS MEET SATURDAY NOON

Pickaway Township Scene Of Conference Planned For All Educators

PROGRAM OF INTEREST

Many Administrators Take Part In Monday Eve Discussion

School teachers of Pickaway County will gather Saturday from 9:45 a. m. to 12 o'clock noon in the Pickaway Township building for another of the series of gatherings planned during the year. Superintendent G. D. McDowell urged a full attendance since the program which has been arranged is believed to be an outstanding one.

Three speakers will be heard, including Dr. Spencer Shank, director of research in the Cincinnati Public Schools, whose subject will be "Reading"; Miss Musa Garrett of Columbus, who will discuss "Writing"; and O. E. Funk, curriculum supervisor of the conservation department in the state department of education, who will use "The New Conservation Program for Ohio" as his topic.

Music on Program

Music during the session will be provided by Pickaway Township pupils directed by Miss Jane McWhirter. Their numbers will include: the girls' chorus selections, "Lift Thine Eyes," an oratorio from Elijah, and "Where'er You Walk," by Handel; "Prayer" from "Hansel and Gretel" by Engelbert Humperdinck, and "Hall to the Elm," Hammon, by the fourth, fifth and sixth grade girls' chorus, and a violin-clarinet duet, "Tales From the Vienna Woods," Strauss, by Evelyn Pierce and George Wilson.

E. H. Althaus will pronounce the invocation and benediction.

Numerous school leaders were present Monday evening at Circleville High School for a discussion of Group No. 4, which includes Pickaway, Fairfield, Fayette and Ross Counties. The program opened at 7:30 o'clock with G. D. McDowell speaking of outstanding work in Pickaway County. Others on the program includes J. Wray Henry, Circleville High principal, who discussed the St. Louis meeting of a week ago; Leslie Canup of Perry Township, who spoke of the Federal Farm Security Administration Resettlement program within the Perry Township district; Harold K. Costlow of New Holland, "The County Program in Secondary Reading"; C. A. Higley, Ashville, "Supervisory and Administrative Problems in the Typical Village or Rural School"; R. A. Francis, Scioto Township, "The Evaluative Criteria"; Ralph D. Purdy, Rushville, "What Other States Are Doing With the Criteria"; R. M. Eymann, Fairfield County superintendent, "The Fairfield County Plan for the Study of the Criteria".

BOY, 10, DROWNS IN SCIOTO RIVER AT CHILLICOTHE

CHILLICOTHE, March 13 — Chillicothe had its first drowning victim of 1940 when Marvin Wildman, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Wildman, was drowned in the Scioto River.

Playing in a boat with Ralph Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest G. Smith, near their home late Tuesday, Marvin discovered that the boat was without oars and became frightened. He jumped on a rock off shore and then began to wade to the bank, but he got beyond his depth and was caught in the current and disappeared.

Police, firemen and sheriff's officials rushed to the scene with rescue equipment. The body was recovered two hours later, but resuscitation efforts failed.

CANCEL SCHOOL HOLIDAY

WALTHAM, Mass.—Two extremely unpleasant plans—as far as students are concerned—are before the school board in order to make up for two lost school days caused by the blizzard. ASHVILLE

By S. D. Fridley
Ashville, Phone 79

Met our little friend Lee Nicholson down town buying himself a kite to join the other couple dozen boys enjoying kite flying quite popular with the youngsters now. Some of them tell us of the heights they reach measured by the string length used. Lee, besides being a kite flying enthusiast can imitate by sound many birds and animals.

James Hott, who has known all about farming for these many years, made a try at plowing Monday and said the ground was frozen too hard to make a good job of it and quit. And yesterday, tried it again but the wind was too swift for comfort and quit for keeps, at least for a few days when the weather man gets on his good behavior.

A report came in yesterday evening that the preliminary work on the first of those "12-dwellings-for-sure" for Ashville in the 1940 building season, has started. "We know of four for sure" a party told us yesterday but a "couple of 'em are not in the talking stage yet," he said. And more, one of the Gloyd Brothers, painters and builders, told us they had plenty of work to do soon as the weather would permit. Said they are plenty busy now trying to get the new church building on North Long Street, completed and ready for occupancy by the first of the coming month.

Interest in the erection of an Ashville municipal building, located somewhere in the down town section, has not lessened and the preliminary work toward an actual erection start, is under way.

The local school board with all members present was in session at the school building office Tuesday evening. Only routine business was transacted.

The new auto license plates are showing more and more each succeeding day since the first of the week. And they really are nice appearing. Have the old ones beat more than "that block" you often hear about.

Ashville School News

The best attendance record for February in the Grade School was that of Grade Seven, Mr. Smith, teacher. The percentage was 94.5, slightly more than Grade Eight. In the High School the Juniors were high with 98.8 percent and no close competition. The Grade average was 91 and the High School, 95, not so bad for a severe winter month like February proved to be.

Promises of donations for the basketball banquet to be given by the local PTA Friday evening of this week are coming in very well for which the committee is thankful. They request that the articles themselves be delivered at the school building early Friday

ALLIED PRESTIGE HURT, OFFICIAL U. S. DECLARES

Leaders In Washington Circles Say Damaging Blow Struck

EARLY WARNING NOTED

Finland May Press For Loan Authorized By Congress

WASHINGTON, March 13—A deep official silence obviously tinged with the conviction that Franco-British prestige has received a damaging blow greeted word of the Russo-Finnish peace in Washington today.

Leaders in all official quarters—the White House, State Department, congress and the diplomatic corps—declined public comment, but more than one admitted to the belief that the peace was "bad news" for the Allies.

All, of course, expressed joy over termination of a bloody conflict, but, as one of the administration's key foreign policy spokesmen in congress—the forborne use of his name—put it:

"I warned Finnish representatives last November, even before hostilities began, that they must expect a conclusion to any war with Russia similar to the one that is at hand."

"I told them at the time that peace could better be made than later, and warned them they would receive little outside help."

"I told them that the only United States aid they could hope for would be a non-military loan. Such a loan recently was authorized, nearly six months after the war started."

The only State Department comment was reiteration that U. S. diplomatic representatives abroad had had no part in negotiation of the Russo-Finnish peace.

WASHINGTON, March 13—Despite the Russo-Finnish peace, Finland will press for, and probably receive the recently authorized $20,000,000 non-military, export-import bank loan, it was said today.

Officials of the Federal Loan Administration observed that they could not see that termination of the Russo-Finnish hostilities would in any way affect validity of the loan.

Loan Still Effective

Finnish Minister Hjalmar Procope, according to an aide, will insist that the $20,000,000 loan still is in effect.

"The need for the money will be as great for purposes of rehabilitation and general relief," the aide declared.

Prior to authorization of the $20,000,000 loan, which is for purchase of agricultural and other non-military items, such as soap, gasoline, etc., Finland was granted a $10,000,000 export-import bank loan to buy a similar list of commodities.

The little Baltic republic only recently has used up the last of this money. The $20,000,000 has not yet been tapped, officials said.

SUSPECT IN WOMAN'S DEATH HELD IN EAST

COLUMBUS, March 13—Frank Allen, 29-year-old Columbus Negro wanted for questioning in connection with the slaying of his wife, has been arrested in Philadelphia, Pa., police announced today.

Meanwhile, Assistant County Prosecutor T. Vincent Martin said a first-degree murder charge would be filed against the former porter at the Phi Beta Delta Fraternity house. The body of his wife, Mollie, 29, was found in a well beside their home southwest of the city. She was a cook at the fraternity.

School Teams Start Joust Thursday At 1

COLUMBUS, March 13—Keyed to a fine pitch and cherishing championship ambitions, 320 well trained prep basketball players were to arrive in Columbus today and tomorrow morning for the state cage tourney which starts Thursday at 1 p. m.

Several of the 32 competing quintets, seeking the Class A and Class B scholastic titles, timed their Columbus debut for early afternoon so they might practice in the Coliseum and Ohio State University gymnasium.

Accompanying the competing quintets, in many instances, were flashily garbed bands who invariably bolster the color and enthusiasm associated with the tournament.

Booster delegations from various cities, towns, villages and hamlets were to arrive tomorrow to cheer their favorites in victory or sympathize with them in defeat. High School Athletic Commissioner H. R. Townsend declared a new attendance mark might be set if the weather was favorable during the three day affair.

Coincident to the tournament itself, were choice morsels which sprouted from a natural, widespread interest in the classic.

From Holgate in Henry County came the youngest competitor. He was 14-year-old Marvin Smith, a freshman, who has been a factor in his team's well earned entrance into the Class B tourney.

Nineteen colleges and universities were represented in the tournament, from a coaching standpoint. Miami University led in this respect, four mentors having graduated from that institution. Ohio University had three, Heidelberg, Ohio State, Defiance, and Bowling Green claimed two apiece. Bell State Teachers, Indiana, Arizona State, Warrensburg, Mo., West Virginia Wesleyan and Illinois were the "foreign" schools represented on the coaching docket.

In Class B, six schools qualified for a shot at the state crown for the first time. They were Smithfield, Holgate, Kitts Hill, New Carlisle, Hanover and Germantown.

Boys whose birthdays occur during the tournament are: William Elias, Martins Ferry, March 15; Thomas Carnes, Canton McKinley, March 14; William Snyder, Canton Lehman, March 14; Ken Huddleston, Dayton Fairview, March 16; Jack Austgen, Akron South, March 16; Eugene Jenkins, Kitts Hill, March 14; Howard and John Thompson, Sandusky St. Marys twins, March 14.

Amanda Favored
Although Smithfield was established as an early Class B favorite, many persons were backing Amanda as the "dark horse" five to beat. The Fairfield County boys won 22 and lost two, appearing impressive in each start.

Their most valuable asset, according to fans who have watched the team play, is a deceptive feinting offensive which "suckers" opposing guards and leaves a man free in the "hole" to flip one through the net. Their ball handling reputedly cannot be surpassed by the other 15 entrants.

Along the Class A front, Bellefontaine appeared to have a surprisingly strong backing along with New Philadelphia, Canton McKinley, and Cincinnati Woodward.

The Bellefontaine team, a semi-finalist last year, was a favorite with the crowd during its previous visit to Columbus. Back again this year will be Forward Highreth whose accuracy on long, arching shots was a principal reason the Bellefontaine quintet moved into the semi-final round.

FOOD SHORTAGE

THE war god devours not only human beings but human food. Already, after only six months of hostilities and with the war not really started, Europe faces its first threats of famine.

It is well known that food in Germany, for the whole population, is scarce and of poor quality, with some health-essentials almost entirely lacking. France is forced to put civilians on short rations to nourish the army. Food supplies are shrinking in two-thirds of its foodstuffs; and Lloyd George warns the government that England is not so well off as it was the last time. There are "5,000,000 more mouths to feed and 6,000,000 less tons of shipping to feed them with."

Hard-pressed Finland has used up its food resources and depends largely on foreign supplies. A severe shortage is reported in Russia, especially in areas around Moscow and Leningrad, with food lines the largest in several years. And so it goes.

Apparently there is going to be a good market, and a great need, for the American food surplus—if Britain and France can keep the sea open to ferry the stuff across.

NINETY-SIX YEARS YOUNG

THE SAYING that if you would live long, you should pick out long-lived grandparents, has the approval of Mrs. Lora Ann Doty Hall, who observed her ninety-sixth birthday recently. At least, she answered the usual question about the cause of her long life in an unusual way.

"I inherited it," she said. "Two of my great-aunts lived to be 106. One of my sisters lived to be 96. I can't say there's any other explanation."

Perhaps there are additional reasons in Mrs. Hall's case. This healthy, happy woman has never been a worrier, although she had eleven children and is a great-grandmother. If future years could be as satisfactory as the first ninety-six, she says, she wouldn't mind living ninety-six more.

In still another way this wise old lady seems to be different. She has never known hard times. That may be a matter of definition, but it's Mrs. Hall's happy story and she'll probably stick to it as long as she lives.

Perhaps that gold hoard buried at Fort Knox, Kentucky, which has been regarded as a possible war chest, will turn out to be a peace chest.

WORLD AT A GLANCE

—By—
Charles P. Stewart

THERE CAN be one of the worst governmental jumbles in Washington in 1941 and 1942 that this country ever saw. In fact, it can be avoided in only one way — by the election this year of a Democratic president and a Democratic house of representatives. Republicans contend that the jumble will be preferable to a Democratic presidential and representative victory. Their story is that the jumble will un-jumble itself by 1943, but that there won't be much hope if both the White House and the lower congressional chamber go Democratic again next November. That's a matter of partisan opinion. But there's no question as to the jumble's possibilities if the Democrats lose, either on the presidential or the representative vote, or both votes, in the fall.

The whole nub of it is this: The Democrats can be beaten presidentially, because 1940 is a presidential year. They can lose their representative majority, because all representative seats will be at stake. They can't lose their senatorial majority, because the senators are voted on only one-third at a time. If they (the Democrats) lose every senate seat this year to be balloted on (a practical impossibility) they still will have a senatorial advantage. To flip the senate the G.O.P. will have to wait until November, 1942—if they can do it then.

IF AND IF AND IF

Thus: Suppose that the Democrats elect their presidential candidate and hang onto their representative majority. They still will control the senate, even if by a narrow margin. They'll be solid for at least two more years.

But suppose they win the White House, while losing the representative chamber. In that event the White House will have a pair of conflicting congressional houses to deal with. The representatives will be anti-administration and anti-senate.

However, suppose the Republicans elect their presidential nominee. If they do, it's a fair guess that they'll carry the house of representatives also, but they won't have carried the senate anyway, because that's an impossibility—not enough new seats to fill. So the new Republican president will be stymied likewise.

The two congressional houses will disagree with one another in all probability. And if, by chance, the Republicans capture the White House, while missing a representative majority, both houses will disagree with the president.

There have been cases before where a president, starting off with congress back of him, has lost control of one or the other house, or both of them, in his own mid-term, but in the present instance there's an excellent chance that the whole situation will be split up dating from inauguration day.

IT CAN HAPPEN

Of course the Democrats insist that no such thing can happen, because, they say, they're absolutely certain to win everything hands down. The Republicans, however, profess equal certainty that they'll elect their presidential candidate and a majority of the representatives. They have to admit, though, that they can't grab the senate under two years more.

The Democrats have that much edge on the Republicans. The former CAN gobble the entire outfit. The latter can't—not this time.

The truth is that the G.O.P. management, when it expresses itself sotto voce, is more confident of scooping in a representative majority than it is of swiping the White House.

The executive mansion is recognized as a good deal of a gamble, with the odds perhaps somewhat in the Democrats' favor, since they don't own up to it) haven't any such appealing first place candidates as several of the Democrats. They're GOOD candidates, but not particularly colorful, with the exception of Tom Dewey, who has other drawbacks—youth, inexperience, a positive excess of "glamor," et cetera.

The G.O.P., though, has real hopes of carrying the house of representatives. It gained there, like everything, in 1938, and it counts on gaining more yet in November. It counts on senate gains also, but will have to wait until 1942 for an upper house majority—if it gets it THEN.

Nevertheless, there's no discounting the possibilities of a record-breaking four-year jumble.

AMENDMENTS ALMOST BEATEN

WASHINGTON—It's a committee secret, but those sweeping National Labor Relations Act amendments recommended by the Honor investigators came within a hair's breadth of being ditched in the investigating committee itself.

Representative Charles A. Halleck of Indiana balked at approving them up to the last minute, finally gave in only after Chairman Howard Smith, Virginia anti-unionite who authored them, agreed to drop one designed to curb the freedom to strike.

This was one of two pet amendments vigorously advocated by Smith in the closed-door deliberations of the committee. The other would strip the NLRB of all enforcement powers, and transform it from a potent regulatory agency into a quasi-judicial body passing only on complaints submitted to it by an independent Administrator, who would be the real boss of the labor law.

The two New Dealers on the committee, Representatives Abe Murdock of Utah and Arthur Healey of Mass., flatly refused to have anything to do with Smith's bill, so he had to have Halleck's vote to get anywhere. Otherwise the New Dealers would have had a 3-to-2 majority and there would have been no amendments.

So Smith reluctantly backed down, but only after a stormy row with Halleck.

The young Hoosier Republican bluntly told Smith he considered his bill "half-baked" and biased, and urged that nothing be done until later in the session after the committee had completed its probe. Smith insisted on immediate action, on the ground that an early adjournment might stymie the legislation.

PRESS-MINDED

"I'd rather take that risk," shot back Halleck, "than rush in with amendments that are half-baked. These amendments you've drafted are too drastic. They'll have to be toned down and that will take time. I'm not anti-labor and I don't want the workers of my state to think I would interfere with their rights to bargain collectively."

"The committee met this morning to take action on this report," retorted Smith, "and I insist that it do so."

"I'll give you my answer tomorrow," replied Halleck, picking up his papers and walking toward the door.

"Hey, wait a minute," yelled Smith, "Where are you going? You can't do this." "What do you mean, I can't do this?" snapped Halleck wheeling angrily.

"I'm chairman of this committee," thundered Smith, "and I insist on staying in session until we finish with this report. Tomorrow will be too late."

"What's all the hurry? Why can't we wait?"

"Well," sputtered Smith, "because I promised the newspaper boys I'd give them the amendments this morning."

Everyone, including Halleck and Smith, broke into laughter at this profound explanation. It eased the tension, and in a (Continued on Page Eight)

Making Doughnuts More Digestible

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Are doughnuts indigestible?

This is an old prejudice which is based on the belief that doughnuts are made of fat which causes them to "lay on the stomach." Physiologists, however, tell us that it is not fat itself which is indigestible, but the method by which it is incorporated into the foods.

In making old-fashioned doughnuts, deep frying fat was the method used, and it was common for this fat to be broken down because of the lack of temperature control, which produces insoluble acids, the true culprits of indigestion. When doughnuts are made with the best fats, they are not indigestible.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Doughnuts are also very nutritious, having 49 per cent carbohydrate, 45 per cent fat, and six per cent protein, which is quite a well-balanced fuel for the human engine.

Treatment of Falling Eyelashes

What are the cause and treatment of falling eyelashes?

The usual cause is chronic blepharitis, which is a chronic inflammation of the hair follicles of the eyelid. Sometimes, after the blepharitis has healed, patients develop a habit of pulling the lashes. In rare instances the eyelashes fall out for no known cause.

Sometimes the use of three per cent zinc oxide ointment will lessen the itching that prompts people to pull the eyelashes.

RICHARD HOUGHTON
WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

I, Bill Strickland, am suspected in the murder of my friend, Alfred Markham, rich young jeweler, at a party in a riverside clubhouse. While Coroner Silver examines the place in the garden where the body was found, Captain of Detectives Clyde McDonald questions members and guests in the main clubroom.

CHAPTER FIVE

CAPTAIN McDONALD dropped into one of the overstuffed chairs and growled at St. Clair. "Are you an officer in this club?"

"I am president."

St. Clair selected a settee and was about to light a cigaret when the police officer stopped him.

"No, not there. Stand by the fireplace where we can all see and hear you."

A slight flush pinked St. Clair's cheeks, but he rose and stood as directed.

"I want to know more about the building," Captain McDonald told him. "Could anyone get into the rear court without going through the glass doors?"

The captain's eyes were narrow. He'd forgotten his former self-consciousness. He'd become the bloodhound on the trail.

I realized why he had asked St. Clair to stand in front of the fireplace. From where he stood St. Clair could not help but look directly at those glass doors, and since one of them stood open he would have a clear view of the spot the coroner was examining—the place where Alfred Markham's body had lain.

The fireplace therefore was an excellent place to stand a man to study his reactions, if there was any suspicion that he might be connected with the slaying. I couldn't see, however, that any suspicion could be attached to St. Clair.

"The clubhouse extends from side to side of the peninsula," St. Clair said in reply to the question. "There is a narrow walk around it, but at high tide the water comes right up to the foundation. There is a very high tide tonight."

"How do you know the tide is high?"

"Why, why—I noticed it was up over the walks."

"Oh, I see."

St. Clair hurried on, recovering his self-assurance. "There is no other door opening out into the court except those doors at the foot of the stairs. Of course a person could walk around the building if he didn't mind getting his feet wet, and there are plenty of windows, but they are all locked."

"Locked from the inside?"

"Yes."

"Then there is no reason a window couldn't be unlocked by a person inside, who wanted to get out into the court?"

"No."

"That's all I wanted to know. Thank you, Mr. Montclair. I'd like to ask you a few questions. Please take Mr. St. Clair's place."

Jerry plainly was nervous as he stood up before us all. Part of it may have been his natural bashfulness, because he was still scarcely more than a boy, but his eyes refused to look toward the doorway into the court. Instead, they fastened on me as a sort of refuge. I tried to encourage him with a smile, but it was a sick smile, because I was thinking I would be in his place soon.

"When did you last see Alfred Markham alive?" the captain asked quickly.

Poor Jerry went pale. "I—I guess it was when I looked out the door and saw him standing looking up at the moon. He and Bill had been quarreling. I—" He stopped short, biting his lip. He hadn't intended to drag me into it.

The captain raised his eyebrows. "Oh, so Mr. Strickland was out in the garden with him?" His paws clamped on the cigar.

"We'll, no. He was just coming in. He came in and went upstairs. He didn't come downstairs again until—until after we found Al—dead."

"So you think he was upstairs when Markham was stabbed?"

"Yes, sir."

"Do you remember where the others were? Point out to me everyone you are sure was in this room all the time between when you looked out the door and Mr. St. Clair found the body."

Jerry indicated several of us.

"That won't do," said the captain. "We've got to be more sure of this. Was someone playing the piano? Tell me who it was, Mr. Montclair."

Jerry swallowed, and nodded toward Muriel. The officer directed her to seat herself at the institute. One by one he disposed of a dozen others that Jerry was sure of, placing them as they had been grouped around the piano singing. Then he began to question them, discovering who had stood at one side or in front or behind. In a few minutes the entire group with the exception of myself was accounted for.

The captain scratched his head.

"So you've all got perfect alibis? When Markham was stabbed you were all around the piano singing—all but Bill Strickland, and he was upstairs. Are you sure no one left this group?"

McKee Home Party Given For Associate Of Store

Miss Sallie Johnson, Who Is Leaving City, Honored Guest

Mr. and Mrs. Howard McKee of North Court Street entertained a group of friends, Tuesday evening, the affair being arranged as a surprise party honoring Miss Sallie Johnson who will leave soon for Columbus. Miss Johnson, who has been employed in the office of the Circleville Cussins and Fearn store, has been transferred to the main office of the company in Columbus.

A contest, which formed the entertainment of the early evening, was won by Howard Richardson and Herbert Hammel.

After delightful refreshments were served, the guests played cards and other games. Miss Johnson received an attractive gift from the store group.

The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Donald Wolf, Miss Betty Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hammel, Mr. and Mrs. Cary Shastee, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Schiering, Miss Johnson, Ned Dresbach, Howard Richardson, Ned Harden of the Circleville community and Miss Ann Gheen of Chillicothe.

Sorosis Club

The Sorosis Club met Monday at the home of Mrs. William Radcliff of Williamsport. Mrs. Howard Nessel, president, presided at the business session. The members voted to give the extra gifts left from a recent bridge party to the Williamsport Parent-Teacher Association for the bingo party which the group is sponsoring Friday night.

Miss Dorothy Jackson explained a novel way to answer the roll call, by answering with a statement pertaining to the program for that evening. This method will be used in the future.

Mrs. Archie Rawlinson was appointed third vice president.

Miss Virginia Smith, program leader for the evening, told of her work in the county and began her talk with a short history of "Mothers' Pensions."

Refreshments were served to 33 members and two guests, Mrs. Tom Gephart and Mrs. John Smith. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Esta Tipton, Mrs. Kenneth List, Miss Mary McCollister and Miss Helen West.

Mrs. Rawlinson and Mrs. Nessel presided at the attractive refreshment table.

Scioto Grange

After "A Song for Ireland" was sung by the group, Irish jokes were told by J. C. McCord. Ralph Fisher gave an interesting history of St. Patrick, H. W. Wilcox including a poem in his short talk.

Mrs. J. W. Vause told of attending a recent reception for old folks in Columbus.

Light refreshments in keeping with the season were served by Mrs. Ben Vause and Mrs. Purcell.

Stooge Dance

One of the major social events of the school year, the Stooge Club dance, will be held in Memorial Hall auditorium Friday, April 5. Bill Kessler and his orchestra, a Lancaster band, has been engaged to play for the dancing, beginning at 8:30 p. m. and continuing until 12.

Loren Pace, a member of the Circleville High School faculty, plays with this musical unit, and sings as part of the entertainment furnished by the group.

Star Grange

After the ritualistic opening of Star Grange by Cecil Reid, master, candidates were balloted on during the business session Tuesday at Monroe school.

Members of Scioto Grange were guests for the evening, Dwight Bethards, Scioto master, presenting the grangers during the meeting.

Turney Glick, county deputy, and Mrs. Glick were present, Mr. Glick offering many suggestions during his informal talk concerning grange affairs.

Mrs. Garnett Porter, lecturer, was in charge of the literary program, Miss Glendia Dick singing "Mother MacChree" for the first number. "The Story of St. Pat-

'BOOSTER' SCORES 663 IN ABC PIN TOURNEY

DETROIT, March 13 — There will be little change in the American Bowling Congress leadership, it became apparent today until Friday when regular teams reappear.

Holding the spotlight for the moment was Richard Weiss, who, although a "booster," put together a fine series of rolls last night for a 663 total score which boosted him into second place among the singles leaders. Weiss also went into the second slot in the all event standings with 1811, a combination of 582 in the five man, 566 in the doubles, and his 663.

The galleries focussed their attention on Weiss when he began to bowl like a champion. Slamming powerful hooks down the alleys that registered strike after strike and amidst a general and interested silence he piled up a fine 663, eclipsing the work of Herbert Trapp, another Detroit booster, who rolled a 643.

Best doubles score in last night's shooting, 1100, was posted by Steve Kowalski and Mike Kstanecki, of Detroit.

HOLGATE'S ENTIRE FIRST FIVE RETURNS NEXT YEAR

COLUMBUS, March 13—If Holgate's entry in the state high school Class B tourney in Columbus beginning Thursday does not win the title this year, the same squad will be back in school next year for another shot at the state crown, it was disclosed today. Holgate is the only school in either the Class A or B tourney which does not have at least one senior on the squad.

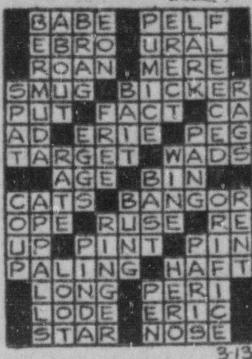

GRISSOM TO TAKE HILL FOR YANKEE WORKOUT

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 13—The New York Yankees resumed their exhibition game schedule today with the Brooklyn Dodgers as guest victims. Manager Joe McCarthy named Rookie Ernie Bonham of Kansas City; Lee Grissom, late of the Reds, and Charley Stangeau of Binghamton for pitching duty.

GRANT SWEARINGEN FARM BOUGHT BY H. M. CRITES FOR $110 AN ACRE

PUBLIC AUCTION ATTRACTS HUGE BUYING CROWD

Property Granted After Revolutionary War Changes Hands

MANY CHATTELS OFFERED

Sale Declared To Be One Of Biggest Conducted In Recent Years

The Grant Swearingen property of 180 acres, one of Pickaway County's "show place" farms, was sold Tuesday to H. M. Crites, 624 South Court Street, at a public auction that climaxed one of the largest sales to be conducted in Pickaway County in recent years. The sale was held by Mrs. E. S. Thacher, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Grant Swearingen, to close the estate.

Mr. Crites paid $110 an acre for the 180-acre property known as "Tanglewood Farm", located on the Florence Chapel Pike, five and one-half miles west of Circleville in Jackson Township. The sale was conducted by Walter O. Bumgarner, auctioneer, with Wayne Hoover as clerk.

In Family Many Years

The farm bought by Mr. Crites had been in the Swearingen family for many years, having been granted to Captain Bedinger, great-grandfather of the late Grant Swearingen, for distinguished service during the Revolutionary War.

The sale attracted a large crowd of interested persons, many of whom attended it to offer bids on the land on the various chattels being offered. The chattel sale totalled $3,900. Stock was in good demand and brought fair prices, the top for Hereford cows being $82, and $100 being the peak for horses.

Four horses, 34 head of cattle, 79 hogs, a complete line of farm implements and the excellent farm, which includes some of the best agricultural land in the county, attracted the large crowd.

WPA CHIEF WILL TALK OVER RADIO SATURDAY

The national head of the Work Projects Administration, Col. F. C. Harrington, will give a 15-minute talk on "What the WPA Has Done in Four and One-Half Years," over the Columbia Broadcasting System, Saturday night, March 16, at 10:15 p. m., it was announced today by J. L. Kelly, manager of District 6, which includes Pickaway County.

Among stations carrying the talk is WENS, Columbus.

CAMERA CLUB TALKING OF SPRING EXHIBITION

Discussion of plans for a public showing of prints produced by members comprised part of the Tuesday evening session of the Circleville Camera Club conducted in Steddom's Studio, West Main Street. The question was considered at length with members deciding that a showing would probably be conducted sometime during the spring.

The club was visited by Ernie Marquand and Morris Unkerman, Columbus camera enthusiasts, who urged local members to exhibit prints at an Amateur Photographic Salon in Columbus May 1 to June 1 under sponsorship of the Gas Company.

The visitors also judged a display of prints taken to the meeting by the members, deciding that one owned by James Reichelderfer was best, one of George Gerhardt's was second, and one of Ruth Moffitt's was third.

The club's course in photography consisted of questions from a current photography magazine. Several of the members exhibited their cameras during the evening.

The Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

calmer vein, with Smith agreeing to junk the anti-strike amendment, Halleck finally consented to go along with him and Representative Harry Routzohn of Ohio, the other GOP member, on the remainder of the bill.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

All the Republican presidential candidates are privately wooing Joe Pew, multi-millionaire boss of Pennsylvania, who will control about 100 votes at the convention, but publicly they are keeping him at arm's length because he is political poison with the labor vote.

For a red-hot New Dealer, scrappy Maury Maverick is chalking up a strange record as mayor of San Antonio. He has balanced the city's budget, reduced taxes and put an end to labor strife. . . . One state where Senator Vandenberg is making little headway with Republican leaders is Indiana. Reason is that in 1938 he angered them by making a speech criticizing them for running a candidate against Democratic Senator Fred Van Nuys, who was on the White House purge list Van Nuys' GOP opponent came within an ace of winning the election.

DOUBLE VICTORY

The White House inner circle scored not one but two victories in the bitter behind-the-scenes battle over the selection of trustees for the billion-dollar Associated Gas & Electric system.

First triumph of the New Dealers was in blocking the appointment of former Treasury Under Secretary John Hanes and having named instead, against strong opposition from powerful Wall Street interests, three pro-Holding Company Act liberals, Willard Thorp, Dennis J. Driscoll and Walter M. Pollack.

The second triumph arises out of the first. By installing these three allies at the head of the giant utility, the New Dealers gave the SEC a tremendous weapon in its new campaign to enforce the so-called "death sentence" provision of the Holding Company Act, which requires utilities to simplify ("integrate") their financial structures along regional lines.

The SEC faces rough going anyway, but it would be a lot tougher if a hostile trustee was running the mighty AG&E, which under its original operators was a violent foe of federal regulation. Now, however, the SEC is assured that the utility will cooperate to act as a model for corporate simplification. This will be invaluable in bringing indirect pressure on other top-heavy utility empires to fall into line.

WOMAN ADMITS CHECK FORGERY, GOES TO JAIL

The arrest Tuesday afternoon of Mrs. Stella Birchwell Smith, 28, 127 Pinckney Street, by Chief of Police William McCrady halted a series of forged checks that had been passed recently to Circleville merchants.

Mrs. Smith pleaded guilty to the charges on the two affidavits filed by the Merit Shoe store and the Mykrantz Drug Company. She was bound to the grand jury under a $2,000 bond on each count and was remanded to the county jail when she defaulted.

The checks were passed for Mrs. Smith by several school children who had been bribed with the offer of a dime reward for making the purchases for her and returning the merchandise and the change. Mrs. Smith forged the name of Mrs. L. H. Mebs, proprietor of the Franklin Inn, to the checks.

Police Chief McCrady conducted a thorough investigation Monday and Tuesday after he had received reports from Circleville merchants that forged checks were being passed by boys of school age. Five boys identified Mrs. Smith for the police as the woman who had given them the checks to make the purchases.

Accompanying the checks were letters asking the store keepers to give the requested merchandise to the children since she was unable herself to make the purchases.

Mrs. Smith's father is at present serving a term at the Ohio Penitentiary in Columbus for forgery.

LUTHERAN RITES OPEN WEDNESDAY AT 7:30 O'CLOCK

"Mac" would laugh if you called him a "genius"

"Mac has a genius," a customer said the other day, "for taking a personal interest in my car—he treats it as if it were going to be his car day after tomorrow!"

So many of our SOHIOANS seem to have that spark of genius for truly friendly service—and each is striving to develop it in his own way.

How do they do it? Sometimes with a trouble-saving suggestion, a little extra effort to please, a little more thorough cleaning of the windshield or the headlamp, a more conscientious checking of tires—in any one of a dozen ways. Whatever it is in each case, you always drive away with the feeling that you get a little bit more than your "money's worth"!

SOVIET PEACE TERMS SHOCK FINLAND

PACT GRANTS MOSCOW MANY PRIVILEGES

MOSCOW, March 13—A peace treaty ending the short but bloody Russo-Finnish war today gave the Soviet Union three large slices of Finnish territory but permitted the little Baltic nation to retain its independence.

A Soviet government communique announced that the Finnish peace delegation had signed a peace treaty at 2:30 a. m. after a dramatic midnight meeting with Dictator Josef Stalin in the Kremlin, terminating the hostilities that have raged from the Mannerheim Line to the Polar Front since the Russians invaded Finland November 30.

Under the peace terms, Russia obtains the Carelian Isthmus, the beleaguered and wrecked city of Viborg (Vilppuri) and the territory adjacent to the shores of Lake Ladoga.

In addition, the Russians will build a railroad across Finland's "waist" to the Gulf of Bothnia.

Other terms drastically reduce the Finnish navy

and call for a Russo-Finnish trade pact as well as establishment of a Russian military and naval base on the Hango Peninsula at the strategic western entrance of the Gulf of Finland.

In return, the U. S. S. R. undertakes to guarantee the independence of Finland.

More severe than the Russian demands on Finland before the hostilities began, the terms as announced officially covered these points:

1—Immediate cessation of hostilities.

2—Cession of the entire Carelian Isthmus to Russia along with the city of Viborg (Vilppuri) and territory along the western and northern shores of Lake Ladoga, including the towns of Sortavala, Suojarvi and Kexholm, and islands in the Gulf of Finland and Viborg Bay.

3—A stipulation that both contracting parties will refrain from any attack on each other and will not conclude alliances or participate in coalitions directed against each other.

4—Russia will lease the Hango Peninsula for

30 years for an annual rental of $128,000 for the purpose of creating a Russian naval base.

5—Russia will withdraw its troops from the Petsamo region in northern Finland. Finnish naval units and coastal defenses in the Petsamo region will be sharply limited.

6—Free transit for Russian citizens and goods across the Petsamo region between Russia and Norway.

7—Construction of a railway, this year if possible, across the Finnish "waist-line" to facilitate transportation of goods between Russia and Sweden.

8—Russia and Finland will enter negotiations for conclusion of a trade treaty.

9—The peace treaty becomes effective on signature and is subject to subsequent ratification.

In addition, it was stipulated that Russian troops will be allowed to move up to the new Russo-Finnish frontiers by 10 a. m. on March 15.

Cession of the Carelian Isthmus will give Russia

full possession of the Mannerheim Line of fortifications, where the snows now cover the bodies of thousands of Finns and Red army soldiers slain in battle.

The pact was signed for Russia by Premier-Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov, A. A. Zhdanov, a member of the presidium of the supreme council, and General Vassilievski.

For Finland the signers were Premier Risto Ryti, Juho Paasiviki, minister without portfolio, Gen. Karl Walden, member of the Finnish defense council, and Vaino Voionmaa, a member of parliament.

Under terms of a protocol attached to the agreement, a neutral zone of one kilometer was to be established between the Russo-Finnish battle fronts as soon as hostilities ceased.

Between March 15 and 22 the Finns were to retreat and the Russians advance seven kilometers a day until the new frontier demarcation lines are reached.

REDS TO TAKE BIG TERRITORY IN AGREEMENT

Minister Tanner Tells Nation That War Has Ended; Carelian Isthmus Including Mannerheim Line to Become Russia's

PARLIAMENT MUST RATIFY PACT

Shortage Of Materials And Men Blamed For Nation's Submission; Problem Concerning Transport Of Allied Troops Discussed

BULLETIN

HELSINKI, March 13—The Finnish parliament today ratified the treaty of peace signed in Moscow last night, bringing to an end Finland's heroic struggle for existence against an enemy fifty times her size. Members of the diet agreed that in the absence of practicable military aid from abroad, the government had no choice but to agree to cessation of hostilities on Soviet Russia's terms, and at 11 a. m. the order to cease fire was given on all fronts.

HELSINKI, March 13—Black-bordered extra editions of Finnish newspapers, flags flying at half-mast and a tearful radio broadcast by Foreign Minister Vaino Tanner told the people of Finland today that their heroic war of existence against Soviet Russia had come to an end on the Kremlin's own terms.

For the first time in three and one-half months of the bloodiest warfare since Verdun, the guns were silenced from Finland's Arctic coast to the deep snows of Southern Carelia beneath which still lie thousands of uncounted Russian and Finnish dead.

The peace pact signed early this morning in the Kremlin still awaits ratification by the Finnish parliament.

But Tanner made it clear in his broadcast to a sorrowing nation that the war is over and done with.

Finland's inability to obtain adequate military help from abroad, due to the difficulties of transport, compelled the government to cede Russia large blocks of Finnish soil, Tanner said, and the country no longer could hold out single-handed against the Red colossus.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: An unverified report in Copenhagen said that the Russians had threatened a war of "total extinction" against Finland unless the peace terms were accepted.)

Never has a peace been greeted with such strange emotions as those which swept Finland today.

No Celebration Here

In the past, news of an armistice has meant riotous celebrations, a great nationwide surge of relief. This one came as a paralyzing shock to a nation which had pledged itself to fight until death. Even after Tanner had concluded his broadcast and announced that President Kyosti himself would speak to the nation, the people found it hard to believe. The streets were filled with weeping men and women who read the black-rimmed newspapers with unbelieving eyes.

Best available information in still-censored Helsinki, however, was that surrender to the Russian demands was inevitable.

The life-blood of the Finnish army had been sapped by eleven weeks of terrible warfare. The Russian offensive on the Carelian (Continued on Page Two)

FINNISH RED CHIEFTAIN AND CABINET EXECUTED?

COPENHAGEN, March 13—Otto Kuusinen, Finnish Communist leader who served briefly as prime minister of a puppet Soviet established at Terijoki, Finland, has been executed at the Kremlin with his entire cabinet, it was reported from Stockholm today.

The entire Finnish section of the Communist International likewise has disappeared, these reports stated.

Unverified dispatches received here said that during the negotiations at the Kremlin, the Soviets threatened a war of "total extinction" against Finland if the peace terms were not accepted.

10 KNOWN DEAD AS STORM HITS LOUISIANA AREA

Shreveport In Center Of Tornado; Rich Man One Of Victims

SHREVEPORT, La., March 13—At least ten persons—five whites and five Negroes—were dead today and 32 others were suffering from injuries as the result of a tornado which swept through Shreveport last night, police announced today following a survey.

Property damage was estimated at upward of $1,000,000.

The identified dead were Mr. and Mrs. John Bauguss, Mrs. Hattie Armstrong, E. G. Woodward and T. K. Giddens.

Most seriously injured of the 32 hurt in the storm was the 8-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bauguss, Betty. Her condition was regarded as critical.

Giddens, reputedly one of the wealthiest men in Shreveport, was killed by a falling tree on one of his farms near Shreveport.

Streets were strewn with fallen trees, broken telephone and power lines, and debris from damaged buildings. Half the city was in darkness last night.

Telephone service between the storm-stricken city and New Orleans and Dallas, cut off for several hours, was restored early today.

The freakish storm, which howled with unprecedented fury about this vicinity did not appear to have done much damage elsewhere, destroyed between 25 and (Continued on Page Two)

CRIPPLED STUDENT KILLS AGED COUPLE, ENDS LIFE

CHICAGO, March 13—Double murder of an aged couple, an attempted attack on their 17-year-old granddaughter, and suicide today figured in a tragic last episode for 17-year-old Howard Larimer, brilliant student at a Chicago School for Crippled Children.

The youth last night entered the apartment of Hugh Welch, 72, and his wife, Mary, 70. He fatally shot both of them. When the granddaughter, Bernadette Welch, returned home, he attempted to attack her, but she screamed and escaped.

He then put a bullet through his right temple. At the school, it was stated that Larimer, who wore a brace on one leg, was a brilliant student but at times erratic.

Oklahoma Governor May Call Guard in Dam War

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 13—Oklahoma's red-haired governor, Leon C. Phillips, today was determined to call out the national guard to enforce his claims against the federal government in the Grand River power dam project.

The governor, who is demanding an $850,000 payment to the state for highways and bridges to be flooded when the dam is completed, announced troops will establish martial law sometime today to prevent the flooding.

The $20,000,000 hydro-electric plant, built by the Federal Public Works Administration, was scheduled to be completed within a few weeks. The dam is in northeastern Oklahoma.

Gov. Phillips declared he will prevent the scheduled completion by refusing to permit the last of the concrete to be poured. It will be impossible to impound the water for the dam's reservoir until this is done.

A long-standing feud which grew out of a demand that an Oklahoman be placed in charge of the project, has been waged between the state and PWA. Several times, the governor threatened to call out troops to protect private property rights. He refused a PWA suggestion that differences be settled in court.

The feud resulted December 1 in the resignation of R. V. L. Wright, manager of the project. Since then, the five-man board in charge of the work, all Oklahomans, and the PWA, which must approve the appointment, have been at loggerheads over the selection of Wright's successor.

The shipments will be made over the German railway lines obviating the possibility of seizure by Britain.

Announcement of the agreement, signed here today and personally worked out by Premier Mussolini and German Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop during the latter's visit to Rome, came as a surprise.

It had been widely reported that an Anglo-Italian coal agreement was being formulated under which Italy would obtain her coal from Britain. This agreement was reported in prospect after England last week released 13 Italian vessels carrying 100,000 tons of German coal which had been seized by British contraband control authorities.

MRS. WINIFRED WALLACE TO RUN FOR RECORDER

Mrs. Winifred Wallace, South Court Street, announced Wednesday that she has entered the Democratic primaries as a candidate for Pickaway County recorder. She drew her nominating petition Tuesday afternoon from the board of elections.

Mrs. Wallace is the second Democrat in the race, her opponent being Mrs. Florence T. Campbell, who is serving her first term.

With the deadline of March 15 drawing nearer more candidates are filing their petitions. Election Board Clerk Claude Kraft announced Wednesday that Harry Griner, Democrat, running for county engineer; Robert G. Colville, Democrat and third-term candidate for treasurer; Dr. E. L. Montgomery, Democrat, running for the first term as coroner; Sterling M. Lamb, Republican, candidate for first term as prosecuting attorney, and William J. Green, Republican, running for first term as commissioner, had filed their petitions in the last 24 hours.

Friday at 6:30 p. m. is the deadline.

EIGHT EASTERN VOTES PLEDGED TO ROOSEVELT

New Hampshire Gives F. D. Margin, But Republican Gains Bigger Edge

WASHINGTON, March 13—President Roosevelt's third term boom today had netted eight convention votes from the New Hampshire primary, although the state's voters disclosed a three-to-one preference for a Republican occupant of the White House next year.

All told, the magic of Mr. Roosevelt's name failed to impress the "Down East" voters. The President won his convention votes handily, but the Democrats showed some antipathy for a third term by giving handsome support to Postmaster-General James A. Farley and Vice President John N. Garner. The most significant development of the primary was the revelation of an overwhelming Republican sentiment in the state. Although Mr. Roosevelt carried New Hampshire in 1936, the primary showed he would be well beaten there in 1940.

The Republicans elected an untested delegation with eight votes to the G. O. P. convention but the delegates themselves were pledged, privately, to their colleague, Senator H. Styles Bridges, as a favorite son. Bridges led the whole Republican slate of delegates.

Bridges, with 32,583 votes, ran ahead of the President more than three to one. The plurality against Mr. Roosevelt was four-and-a-half to one when the votes for Bridges were added to the Democratic vote for Farley, Garner and the unpledged delegate.

Farley's vote total was just under 5,000 votes, while Garner and the unpledged candidate gathered about 4,000 votes each. The 13,000-vote total of these three, added to Bridges 32,000, accounted for 45,000 votes to the President's 10,000.

New Deal leaders of the third term boom drew consolation from (Continued on Page Two)

DIZ DEAN SIGNS WITH CUBS FOR SERVICE IN 1940

CHICAGO, March 13—Dizzy Dean has come to terms with the Chicago Cubs and will not "starve" through the 1940 baseball season, as he had promised to do unless given the contract he demanded, it was revealed today.

Dean, who was believed to have been offered $10,000 for the season while holding out for $15,000, apparently was highly pleased by the final terms, reported to be about $11,000.

The pitcher ironed out his difficulties with the Cubs in a telephone conversation from his home in Texas last night, and sealed the issue today with a telegram to the Cubs' Chicago office.

It was believed Dean would depart for the Cubs' training quarters in California as soon as possible.

It was considered likely his new contract probably would call for a bonus should Dean prove to have overcome the arm trouble that kept him on the bench most of last year.

Mrs. Lawrence Warner Killed In Auto Crash

Circleville Woman, 55, Victim Of Accident In Warsaw, Ind.; Others Not Seriously Hurt

Mrs. Dora Warner, 55, wife of Lawrence Warner, manager of the Pickaway Grain Co., was killed instantly before noon Wednesday in an automobile accident in Warsaw, Ind. Details of the accident were not learned in Circleville.

Mrs. Warner, who had visited for several days with a sister, Mrs. Ida Compton, Naperville, Illinois, was returning home with Mrs. W. D. Leist and her son, Earl, of Washington Township, and a Rev. Mr. Jones of Columbus. Earl Leist was reported to have been driving the automobile which carried the local party. None of the others was reported to have been seriously hurt.

The Warner home is at 490 East Main Street.

Surviving besides the husband are three children, Mrs. Leona Storts of Canal Winchester and Melvin and Oakley Warner of the home.

The M. S. Rinehart funeral car was sent to Warsaw Wednesday afternoon to remove Mrs. Warner's body to Circleville.

JUDGE INFORMED ATTORNEY TRIES TO 'DATE' JUROR

CINCINNATI, March 13—Judge Dudley Outcalt today set March 25 for the rehearing case of an $150,000 alienation suit which terminated abruptly when a woman juror asserted a socially prominent attorney spectator tried to "date" her during the trial.

At the same time, the judge appointed a special committee of the Cincinnati Bar Association to consider contempt proceedings against Mrs. Ann Jones, juror-mother of a small son, and Philip J. Schneider, the attorney.

The suit was brought by Dr. Virgil H. Sergeant, Isleta, Co-shooton County, O., against Mr. and Mrs. William Rhodes Perkins, Cincinnati. Sergeant charged that Mr. and Mrs. Perkins, his parents-in-law, caused his wife to divorce him. Schneider is a defendant in a collateral $50,000 suit filed by Sergeant on the grounds he assertedly conspired in the alienation.

Asked if Schneider ever signalled her while she was in the jury box, Mrs. Jones replied that he once held "two fingers down—this way," and she illustrated. "I did not know what he meant" (Continued on Page Two)

SWEDES URGED TO SAFEGUARD LAND'S BORDERS

STOCKHOLM, March 13—Shocked by terms of the Soviet-Finnish peace, the Swedish press today branded the Moscow treaty "a peace of violence" and called on the government to increase Sweden's armed forces.

The newspaper Social Demokraten, organ of the majority party in the Swedish government, drew from the peace terms the conclusion that "it must awaken the last pacifist" among the Swedes.

BLAZE HITS FAIRFIELD TOWN; LOSS ABOUT $2,000

LANCASTER, March 13—Fire swept through the town hall at nearby Baltimore today, causing damage estimated at $2,000. Most of the damage was done to a theatre housed in the building.

REDS TO TAKE BIG TERRITORY IN AGREEMENT

Foreign Minister Informs People That Hostilities Have Been Ended

Isthmus, it was learned for the first time, took a toll of 30,000 dead and countless wounded, while at least this same number had been killed on other fronts before the final Russian "big push" got under way.

The extra editions which appeared on the streets today in mourning garb carried full terms of the Soviet-dictated peace. With them in black and white was printed confirmation of Tanner's announcement that the armistice became effective at 11 a. m. and that all fighting between the Soviet Red army and Finland's valiant defenders had ceased.

So great was Finland's grief at the conclusion of the war that Finnish flags on all public buildings in Helsinki were flown at half-mast immediately after Tanner's broadcast.

Finland's troops will withdraw five miles per day until the new Russo-Finnish frontiers, agreed on by the peace negotiators in Moscow, have been reached. Under these terms, Russia receives the entire Karelian Isthmus including Viborg (Viipuri) and the Mannerheim Line, territory adjacent to the shores of Lake Ladoga and other sweeping concessions.

Tanner's radio announcement of these details was the first official Finnish declaration to the people that peace negotiations had ended the fighting that began last November 30.

Peace Price Severe

But even before his announcement was made, the Russian peace terms had become known, and Helsinki was shocked by the severity of the Russian price for peace.

Expressions of bitterness were heard on all sides and there was even a faint possibility that Finland's parliament might refuse to ratify the peace agreement.

Tanner, in a 20-minute broadcast, reviewed the peace conditions which he said were accepted by the government but were subject to ratification by the Finnish parliament.

"We were not responsible for the war," he said. "We did not believe it would break out, but it did and our country was forced to defend itself."

Tanner said that despite the efforts of the army, Finland had been short of materials and men. Extensive supplies of materials were received from abroad, he said, but the country still lacked sufficient men. Tanner referred to Sweden's refusal of direct military aid as "this negative Swedish attitude."

"Some time ago," said Tanner, "Finland was offered military help by the Western Powers."

Troop Transport Vital

"This plan was closely examined by Finnish military authorities who found one weak point, namely the question of transport of troops."

Authoritative circles said that "even if the Finnish delegation in Moscow has power to sign a pact with Russia," the agreement must be ratified either by two successive parliamentary votes or, in an emergency, by a single vote with a majority of five-sixths.

(An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Stockholm said it was expected that negotiations regarding the future security of Finland will be opened shortly — if they have not already begun.)

The Finnish parliament, in one of the stormiest sessions in its history, received the Russian terms with anger and amazement. In a bomb-proof shelter outside the capital where the meeting was held, the members charged that the delegation to Moscow was authorized to sign a truce with undue haste.

While a refusal to ratify was considered possible, the weight of informed opinion was that the Parliament would agree to the Russian terms in the end.

But it was clear that the members were staggered by the Russian demands for the whole Karelian Isthmus, the Lake Ladoga shore and sweeping commercial privileges for Russia in Finland.

Accusations Heard

Accusations were hurled that the government knew in advance that large-scale aid was available from Britain and France—as an

an announcement by Rep. Christopher Sullivan, top Indian at Tammany Hall, that the President would be supported by the Hall if he sought a third term. Sullivan also predicted Mr. Roosevelt would carry New York state if nominated for a third term.

This pleased third termers, because New York has 47 electoral votes, while New Hampshire has only four.

Sullivan was asked the direct question whether Tammany would support Roosevelt for a third term. He replied:

"I'd go along with him." "Would Roosevelt carry New York for a third term?" "I imagine so," replied Sullivan. "He is still very popular."

Sullivan said New York would send an uninstructed delegation to the Democratic convention, but he plainly indicated it would vote for Roosevelt if the President sought a third term. Sullivan said the New York delegation would be "very friendly to Farley" in the event the President's name is not submitted to the convention.

Meanwhile, Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes was to reach San Francisco today to smooth out third-term difficulties among the Democrats in California. Ickes went West under instruction from the New Deal to negotiate peace between Gov. Culbert Olson and former Senator William Gibbs McAdoo. They are in a contest for leadership of a third term slate in California's Democratic primary.

STATE HIGHWAY TRAFFIC FACES MORE DANGERS

COLUMBUS, March 13—Rain, which turned to sleet in below freezing temperatures and covered roads in the northwest and north-central portions of the state with a thin sheet of ice, was reported today by the state highway patrol.

Officials at the Union Bus Terminal in Columbus reported that the slippery road conditions necessitated the cancelling of one scheduled run through Fostoria and Defiance.

The highway patrol said all roads in the two sections were open but advised motorists to proceed with extreme caution.

The weather forecast was for rain with slowly rising temperatures Wednesday following by rain and possibly snow and colder temperatures Thursday.

UPPER SANDUSKY, March 13

Scores of motorists were marooned in Upper Sandusky over night by a severe sleet storm which made highway travel hazardous. F. L. Ulrich, 28, suffered a fractured skull in an auto accident north of town. At the order of the state highway department, no school buses ventured out on the roads today.

FUNK DIVORCE FIGHT SUBMITTED TO COURT

After several petitions had been filed and withdrawn and refilled, the divorce case of Hirschel (Jim) Funk vs. Sarah Funk came before the Court of Common Pleas Wednesday.

The charges in the petition which Funk filed were gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty. Mrs. Funk answered the charges and filed a cross petition.

Many persons were in the courtroom as the plaintiff's attorney, Joseph W. Adkins, started calling the witnesses. Tom A. Renick is the attorney defending Mrs. Funk.

GYPSEY MEDLEY

A medley of some of the most glamorous gypsy tunes ever written by Maestro Andre Kostelanetz' orchestral show-piece on the "Tune-Up Time" broadcast of March 18.

He will play selections from three of the popular operettas of Emmerich Kalmann, one of the big three composers of the Viennese school of light opera along with Franz Lehár and Oscar Straus. Kalmann was inspired to write his operetta, "Sari," by a true Hungarian story of a gypsy fiddler with thirty musical sons, most of whom grew up to become rivals of their father. In his Kalmann gypsy fantasy, Conductor Kostelanetz will present the famous waltz from "Sari," "Will You Forget" from "The Riviera Girl," and "Czardas" and "Play Gypsies" from "Countess Maritza."

As a second orchestral feature, Conductor Kostelanetz will direct his 45 musicians in a melodious arrangement of the seasonally popular "April in Paris."

The "Tune-Up Time" chorus will be heard on the broadcast in a novelty glee-club type of number which includes an Irish, a French, and an American folk song and three close harmony ballads. In the order indicated, these selections will be "There Was An Old Man," "Frere Jacques," "Three Blind

Bartone Tony Martin will solo in three popular songs of the day—the first, "Too Romantic," a song introduced on "Tune-Up Time" a few weeks ago and now a leading hit. With the chorus, Tony will also sing a new Cole Porter ballad named "I've Got My Eyes On You," and the popular "When You Wish Upon A Star" from "Pinocchio".

GOVERNOR FILES HIS PAPERS FOR ANOTHER TERM

COLUMBUS, March 13—Asserting he had kept his 1938 campaign promises and declaring he planned to continue his "economy" administration, Governor Bricker today filed petitions for renomination to a second term.

The Republican chief executive, who had been mentioned as a "dark horse" GOP presidential possibility, filed petitions with the secretary of state bearing 153,000 signatures from 88 counties.

"On the ninth day of January, 1939, in the inaugural address," said Bricker, "was this statement: 'Ohio must and shall meet her obligations and operate within her income without new or increased taxes.' Over a year has passed since that date. The promise has been strictly kept."

"It is my belief that the people of Ohio want that kind of government continued. In declaring my candidacy, I pledge to the people of Ohio a continuance of that kind of administration."

Bricker averred his administration had been able to operate "in the black" and still pay off alleged deficits of the previous regime by practicing rigid economy. He added that all "political parasites and chiselers" had been removed from state jobs.

COUNTY SCHOOL
TEACHERS MEET
SATURDAY NOON

Pickaway Township Scene
Of Conference Planned
For All Educators

PROGRAM OF INTEREST

Many Administrators Take Part In Monday Eve
Discussion

School teachers of Pickaway County will gather Saturday from 9:45 a. m. to 12 o'clock noon in the Pickaway Township building for another of the series of gatherings planned during the year. Superintendent G. D. McDowell urged a full attendance since the program which has been arranged is believed to be an outstanding one.

Three speakers will be heard, including Dr. Spencer Shank, director of research in the Cincinnati Public Schools, whose subject will be "Reading"; Miss Musa Garrett of Columbus, who will discuss "Writing"; and O. E. Funk, curriculum supervisor of the conservation department in the state department of education, who will use "The New Conservation Program for Ohio" as his topic.

Music on Program

Music during the session will be provided by Pickaway Township pupils directed by Miss Jane McWhirter. Their numbers will include: the girls' chorus selections, "Lift Thine Eyes," an oratorio from Elijah, and "Where'er You Walk," by Handel; "Prayer" from "Hansel and Gretel" by Engelbert Humperdinck, and "Hail to the Elm," by the fourth, fifth and sixth grade girls' chorus, and a violin-clarinnet duet, "Tales From the Vienna Woods," Strauss, by Evelyn Pierce and George Wilson.

E. H. Althaus will pronounce the invocation and benediction.

Numerous school leaders were present Monday evening at Circleville High School for a discussion of Group No. 4, which includes Pickaway, Fairfield, Fayette and Ross Counties. The program opened at 7:30 o'clock with G. D. McDowell speaking of outstanding work in Pickaway County. Others on the program includes J. Wray Henry, Circleville High principal, who discussed the St. Louis meeting of a week ago; Leslie Canup of Perry Township, who spoke of the Federal Farm Security Administration Resettlement program within the Perry Township district; Harold K. Costlow of New Holland, "The County Program in Secondary Reading"; C. A. Higley, Ashville, "Supervisory and Administrative Problems in the Typical Village or Rural School"; R. A. Francis, Scioto Township, "The Evaluative Criteria"; Ralph D. Purdy, Rushville, "What Other States Are Doing With the Criteria"; R. M. Eymann, Fairfield County superintendent, "The Fairfield County Plan for the Study of the Criteria".

BOY, 10, DROWNS
IN SCIOTO RIVER
AT CHILLICOTHE

CHILLICOTHE, March 13 — Chillicothe had its first drowning victim of 1940 when Marvin Wildman, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Wildman, was drowned in the Scioto River.

Playing in a boat with Ralph Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest G. Smith, near their home late Tuesday, Marvin discovered that the boat was without oars and became frightened. He jumped on a rock off shore and then began to wade to the bank, but he got beyond his depth and was caught in the current and disappeared.

Police, firemen and sheriff's officials rushed to the scene with rescue equipment. The body was recovered two hours later, but resuscitation efforts failed.

CANCEL SCHOOL HOLIDAY

WALTHAM, Mass. — Two extremely unpleasant plans—as far as students are concerned—are before the school board in order to make up for two lost school days caused by the blizzard.

Famed Weekly of Young
Thomas Edison Recalled

Tom Edison's famed Weekly Herald, published by the inventor as a boy when he worked as a news butcher on the Grand Trunk Railroad, plays an important part in the story of "Young Tom Edison," starring Mickey Rooney, which comes to the Cliftona Theatre Sunday, but audiences will not be granted a close-up inspection of this unusual journalistic enterprise.

ASHVILLE
By S. D. Fridley
Ashville, Phone 79

Met our little friend Lee Nicholson down town buying himself a kite to join the other couple dozen boys enjoying kite flying quite popular with the youngsters now. Some of them tell us of the heights they reach measured by the string length used. Lee, besides being a kite flying enthusiast can imitate by sound many birds and animals.

James Hott, who has known all about farming for these many years, made a try at plowing Monday and said the ground was froze too hard to make a good job of it and quit. And yesterday, tried it again but the wind was too swift for comfort and quit for keeps, at least for a few days when the weather man gets on his good behavior.

A report came in yesterday evening that the preliminary work on the first of those "12-dwellings-for-sure" for Ashville in the 1940 building season, has started. "We know of four for sure" a party told us yesterday but a "couple of 'em are not in the talking stage yet," he said. And more, one of the Gloyd Brothers, painters and builders, told us they had plenty of work to do soon as the weather would permit. Said they are plenty busy now trying to get the new church building on North Long Street, completed and ready for occupancy by the first of the coming month.

Interest in the erection of an Ashville municipal building, located somewhere in the down town section, has not lessened and the preliminary work toward an actual erection start, is under way.

The local school board with all members present was in session at the school building office Tuesday evening. Only routine business was transacted.

The new auto license plates are showing more and more each succeeding day since the first of the week. And they really are nice appearing. Have the old ones beat more than "that block" you often hear about.

Ashville School News

The best attendance record for February in the Grade School was that of Grade Seven, Mr. Smith, teacher. The percentage was 94.5, slightly more than Grade Eight. In the High School the Juniors were high with 98.8 percent and no close competition. The Grade average was 91 and the High School, 95, not so bad for a severe winter month like February provided to be.

Promises of donations for the basketball banquet to be given by the local PTA Friday evening of this week are coming in very well for which the committee is thankful. They request that the articles themselves be delivered at the school building early Friday

An actual edition of this worthy sheet, one of two in existence, which was presented to young Rooney by Francis Jehl, curator of the Edison exhibit in Greenfield Village, Michigan, served as a pattern for the newspaper used in the picture.

That Edison at times lacked a feel for a good story is indicated by a line carried under the simple head, "Birth." It read, "At Detroit Junction G.T.R. Refreshment Rooms on the 29th inst., the wife of A. Little, A daughter."

Under the heading of "Hope So," Editor Edison wrote, "The law requiring Saloons and Grog shops to close on Sunday is being enforced in Port Huron, a thing greatly needed as they are a complete nuisance."

Edison's interest in international affairs began early. He reports, "It is reported in Paris that the Emperor of China intends sending an embassy extraordinary to France and England."

But his local interests were not overlooked. Prominently placed is an item reading "Just recovered at the Fort Gratiot Store, a choice lot of new butter." This apparently came under the heading of advertising because there are many such notations. A perusal of the "market quotations" shows that eggs were 12 cents a dozen, chickens 10 to 12 cents each and ducks 30 cents a pair.

An important sequence in "Young Tom Edison" deals with the publication of the Weekly Herald on the Mixed Train. A 1860 model proof press such as young Edison used to print his paper was found in Culver City, California, and was used in the actual printing scenes.

TIME FOR RELIGION

NEW YORK. — It isn't all work in the daytime and playing at night in Manhattan, for the New York Bible Society announced that it printed and distributed 998,562 Bibles or sections of the Bible here last year.

Morning. The advance ticket sale is also good and the affair should prove a success. Music for the occasion will be furnished by a Columbus WPA orchestra.

Messrs. McDowell, Martin, Kauber and Higley attended the discussion group meeting held in Circleville Monday evening and report an instructive meeting and a fine social time. Men from four counties were present.

Several Ashville men teachers plan to attend the meeting of the Schoolmasters' Nameless Club to be held at Monroe Township school on Tuesday of next week.

Leaders In Washington
Circles Say Damaging
Blow Struck

EARLY WARNING NOTED

Finland May Press For Loan Authorized By Congress

WASHINGTON, March 13—A deep official silence obviously tinged with the conviction that Franco-British prestige has received a damaging blow greeted word of the Russo-Finnish peace in Washington today.

Leaders in all official quarters—the White House, State Department, congress and the diplomatic corps—declined public comment, but more than one admitted to the belief that the peace was "bad news" for the Allies.

All, of course, expressed joy over termination of a bloody conflict, but, as one of the administration's key foreign policy spokesmen in congress—he forbade use of his name—put it:

"I warned Finnish representatives last November, even before hostilities began, that they must expect a conclusion to any war with Russia similar to the one that is at hand.

"I told them at the time that peace could better be made then, than later, and warned them they would receive little outside help.

"I told them that the only United States aid they could hope for would be a non-military loan. Such a loan recently was authorized, nearly six months after the war started."

The only State Department comment was reiteration that U. S. diplomatic representatives abroad had had no part in negotiation of the Russo-Finnish peace.

WASHINGTON, March 13—Despite the Russo-Finnish peace, Finland will press for, and probably receive the recently authorized $20,000,000 non-military, export-import bank loan, it was said today.

Officials of the Federal Loan Administration observed that they could not see that termination of the Russo-Finnish hostilities would in any way affect validity of the loan.

Loan Still Effective
Finnish Minister Hjalmar Procope, according to an aide, will insist that the $20,000,000 loan still is in effect.

"The need for the money will be as great for purposes of rehabilitation and general relief," the aide declared.

Prior to authorization of the $20,000,000 loan, which is for purchase of agricultural and other non-military items, such as soap, gasoline, etc., Finland was granted a $10,000,000 export-import bank loan to buy a similar list of commodities.

The little Baltic republic only recently has used up the last of this money. The $20,000,000 has not yet been tapped, officials said.

SUSPECT IN WOMAN'S DEATH HELD IN EAST

COLUMBUS, March 13—Frank Allen, 29-year-old Columbus Negro wanted for questioning in connection with the slaying of his wife, has been arrested in Philadelphia, Pa., police announced today.

Meanwhile, Assistant County Prosecutor T. Vincent Martin said a first-degree murder charge would be filed against the former porter at the Phi Beta Delta Fraternity house. The body of his wife, Mollie, 29, was found in a well beside their home southwest of the city. She was a cook at the fraternity.

School Teams Start
Joust Thursday At 1

COLUMBUS, March 13—Keyed to a fine pitch and cherishing championship ambitions, 320 well trained prep basketball players were to arrive in Columbus today and tomorrow morning for the state cage tourney which starts Thursday at 1 p. m.

Several of the 32 competing quintets, seeking the Class A and Class B scholastic titles, timed their Columbus debut for early afternoon so they might practice in the Coliseum and Ohio State University gymnasium.

Accompanying the competing quintets, in many instances, were flashily garbed bands who invariably bolster the color and enthusiasm associated with the tournament.

Booster delegations from various cities, towns, villages and hamlets were to arrive tomorrow to cheer their favorites in victory or sympathize with them in defeat. High School Athletic Commissioner H. R. Townsend declared a new attendance mark might be set if the weather was favorable during the three day affair.

Coincident to the tournament itself, were choice morsels which sprouted from a natural, widespread interest in the classic.

From Holgate in Henry County came the youngest competitor. He was 14-year-old Marvin Smith, a freshman, who has been a factor in his team's well earned entrance into the Class B tourney.

Nineteen colleges and universities were represented in the tournament, from a coaching standpoint. Miami University led in this respect, four mentors having graduated from that institution. Ohio University had three, Heidelberg, Ohio State, Deafness, and Bowling Green claimed two apiece. Ball State Teachers, Indiana, Arizona State, Warrensburg, Mo., West Virginia Wesleyan and Illinois were the "foreign" schools represented on the coaching docket.

In Class B, six schools qualified for a shot at the state crown for the first time. They were Smithfield, Holgate, Kitts Hill, New Carlisle, Hanover and Germantown.

Boys whose birthdays occur during the tournament are: William Elias, Martins Ferry, March 15; Thomas Carnes, Canton McKinley, March 14; William Snyder, Canton Lehman, March 14; Ken Huddleston, Dayton Fairview, March 16; Jack Austgen, Akron South, March 16; Eugene Jenkins, Kitts Hill, March 14; Howard and John Thompson, Sandusky St. Marys twins, March 14.

Although Smithfield was established as an early Class B favorite, many persons were backing Amanda as the "dark horse" five to beat. The Fairfield County boys won 22 and lost two, appearing impressive in each start.

Their most valuable asset, according to fans who have watched the team play, is a deceptive feinting offensive which "suckers" opposing guards and leaves a man free in the "hole" to flip one through the net. Their ball handling reputedly cannot be surpassed by the other 15 entrants.

Along the Class A front, Bellefontaine appeared to have a surprisingly strong backing along with New Philadelphia, Canton McKinley, and Cincinnati Woodward.

The Bellefontaine team, a semi-finalist last year, was a favorite with the crowd during its previous visit to Columbus. Back again this year will be Forward Hildreth whose accuracy on long, arching shots was a principal reason the Bellefontaine quintet moved into the semi-final round.

FOOD SHORTAGE

THE war god devours not only human beings but human food. Already, after only six months of hostilities and with the war not really started, Europe faces its first threats of famine.

It is well known that food in Germany, for the whole population, is scarce and of poor quality, with some health-essentials almost entirely lacking. France is forced to put civilians on short rations to nourish the army. Food supplies are shrinking in two-thirds of its foodstuffs; and Lloyd George warns the government that England is not so well off as it was the last time. There are "5,000,000 more mouths to feed and 6,000,000 less tons of shipping to feed them with."

Hard-pressed Finland has used up its food resources and depends largely on foreign supplies. A severe shortage is reported in Russia, especially in areas around Moscow and Leningrad, with food lines the largest in several years. And so it goes.

Apparently there is going to be a good market, and a great need, for the American food surplus—if Britain and France can keep the sea open to ferry the stuff across.

NINETY-SIX YEARS YOUNG

THE SAYING that if you would live long, you should pick out long-lived grandparents, has the approval of Mrs. Lora Ann Doty Hall, who observed her ninety-sixth birthday recently. At least, she answered the usual question about the cause of her long life in an unusual way.

"I inherited it," she said. "Two of my great-aunts lived to be 106. One of my sisters lived to be 96. I can't say there's any other explanation."

Perhaps there are additional reasons in Mrs. Hall's case. This healthy, happy woman has never been a worrier, although she had eleven children and is a great-grandmother. If future years could be as satisfactory as the first ninety-six, she says, she wouldn't mind living ninety-six more.

In still another way this wise old lady seems to be different. She has never known hard times. That may be a matter of definition, but it's Mrs. Hall's happy story and she'll probably stick to it as long as she lives.

Perhaps that gold hoard buried at Fort Knox, Kentucky, which has been regarded as a possible war chest, will turn out to be a peace chest.

WORLD AT A GLANCE —By— Charles P. Stewart

THERE CAN be one of the worst governmental jumbles in Washington in 1941 and 1942 that this country ever saw. In fact, it can be avoided in only one way —by the election this year of a Democratic president and a Democratic house of representatives. Republicans contend that the jumble will be preferable to a Democratic presidential and representative victory. Their story is that the jumble will unjumble itself by 1943, but that there won't be much hope if both the White House and the lower congressional chamber go Democratic again next November. That's a matter of partisan opinion. But there's no question as to the jumble's possibilities if the Democrats lose, either on the presidential or the representative vote, or both votes, in the fall.

The whole nub of it is this: The Democrats can be beaten presidentially, because 1940 is a presidential year. They can lose their representative majority, because all representative seats will be at stake. They can't lose their senatorial majority, because the senators are voted on only one-third at a time. If they (the Democrats) lose every senate seat this year to be balloted on (a practical impossibility) they still will have a senatorial advantage. To flop the senate the G.O.P. will have to wait until November, 1942—if they can do it then.

IF AND IF AND IF

Thus: Suppose that the Democrats elect their presidential candidate

AMENDMENTS ALMOST BEATEN

WASHINGTON—It's a committee secret, but those sweeping National Labor Relations Act amendments recommended by the Honor investigators came within a hair's breadth of being ditched in the investigating committee itself.

Representative Charles A. Halleck of Indiana balked at approving them up to the last minute, finally gave in only after Chairman Howard Smith, Virginia anti-unionite who authored them, agreed to drop one designed to curb the freedom to strike.

This was one of two pet amendments vigorously advocated by Smith in the closed-door deliberations of the committee. The other would strip the NLRB of all enforcement powers, and transform it from a potent regulatory agency into a quasi-judicial body passing only on complaints submitted to it by an independent Administrator, who would be the real boss of the labor law.

The two New Dealers on the committee, Representatives Abe Murdock of Utah and Arthur Healey of Mass., flatly refused to have anything to do with Smith's bill, so he had to have Halleck's vote to get anywhere. Otherwise the New Dealers would have had a 3-to-2 majority and there would have been no amendments.

So Smith reluctantly backed down, but only after a stormy row with Halleck.

The young Hoosier Republican bluntly told Smith he considered his bill "half-baked" and biased, and urged that nothing be done until later in the session after the committee had completed its probe. Smith insisted on immediate action, on the ground that an early adjournment might stymie the legislation.

PRESS-MINDED

"I'd rather take that risk," shot back Halleck, "than rush in with amendments that are half-baked. These amendments you've drafted are too drastic. They'll have to be toned down and that will take time. I'm not anti-labor and I don't want the workers of my state to think I would interfere with their rights to bargain collectively."

"The committee met this morning to take action on this report," retorted Smith, "and I insist that it do so."

"I'll give you my answer tomorrow," replied Halleck, picking up his papers and walking toward the door.

"Hey, wait a minute," yelled Smith, "Where are you going? You can't do this."

"What do you mean, I can't do this?" snapped Halleck wheeling angrily.

"I'm chairman of this committee," thundered Smith, "and I insist on staying in session until we finish with this report. Tomorrow will be too late."

"What's all the hurry? Why can't we wait?"

"Well," sputtered Smith, "because I promised the newspaper boys I'd give them the amendments this morning."

Everyone, including Halleck and Smith, broke into laughter at this profound explanation. It eased the tension, and in a

Making Doughnuts More Digestible
By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Are doughnuts indigestible?

This is an old prejudice which is based on the belief that doughnuts are made of fat which causes them to "lay on the stomach." Physiologists, however, tell us that it is not fat itself which is indigestible, but the method by which it is incorporated into the foods.

In making old-fashioned doughnuts, deep frying fat was the method used, and it was common for this fat to be broken down because of the lack of temperature control, which produces insoluble acids, the true culprits of indigestion. When doughnuts are made with the best fats, they are not indigestible.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Doughnuts are also very nutritious, having 49 per cent carbohydrate, 45 per cent fat, and six per cent protein, which is quite a well-balanced fuel for the human engine.

Telling Child He's Adopted

At what age should children be informed if they are adopted?

Psychologists believe that it is advisable to inform adopted children of that fact as early as possible. Young children so informed have no emotional reaction and grow up just as secure in their status as other children.

Three or four years is not too young to do this. The usual technique is to tell them that, whereas most of their friends had to be accepted, their foster parents picked them out and chose them from a group of children and liked them best.

THE KILLER SPEAKS
RICHARD HOUGHTON
WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

I, Bill Strickland, am suspected in the murder of my friend, Alfred Markham, rich young jeweler, at a party in a riverside clubhouse. While Coroner Silver examines the place in the garden where the body was found, Captain of Detectives Clyde McDonald questions members and guests in the main clubroom.

CHAPTER FIVE

CAPTAIN McDONALD dropped into one of the overstuffed chairs and growled at St. Clair. "Are you an officer in this club?"

"I am president."

St. Clair selected a settee and was about to light a cigaret when the police officer stopped him.

"No, not there. Stand by the fireplace where we can all see and hear you."

A slight flush pinked St. Clair's cheeks, but he rose and stood as directed.

"I want to know more about the building," Captain McDonald told him. "Could anyone get into the rear court without going through the glass doors?"

The captain's eyes were narrow. He'd forgotten his former self-consciousness. He'd become the bloodhound on the trail.

He realized why he had asked St. Clair to stand in front of the fireplace. From where he stood St. Clair could not help but look directly at those glass doors, and since one of them stood open he would have a clear view of the spot the coroner was examining—the place where Alfred Markham's body had lain.

The fireplace therefore was an excellent place to stand a man to study his reactions. If there was any suspicion that he might be connected with the slaying, I couldn't see, however, that any suspicion could be attached to St. Clair.

"The clubhouse extends from side to side of the peninsula," St. Clair said in reply to the question. "There is a narrow walk around it, but at high tide the water comes right up to the foundation. There is a very high tide tonight."

"How do you know the tide is high?"

"Why, why—I noticed it was up over the walks."

"Oh, I see."

St. Clair hurried on, recovering his self-assurance. "There is no other door opening out into the court except those doors at the foot of the stairs. Of course a person could walk around the building if he didn't mind getting his feet wet, and there are plenty of windows, but they are all locked."

"Locked from the inside?"

"Yes."

"Then there is no reason a window couldn't be unlocked by a person inside, who wanted to get out into the court?"

"No."

"That's all I wanted to know. Thank you, Mr. Montcalm, I'd like to ask you a few questions. Please take Mr. St. Clair's place."

Jerry plainly was nervous as he stood up before us all. Part of it may have been his natural bashfulness, because he was still scarcely more than a boy, but his eyes refused to look toward the doorway into the court. Instead, they fastened on me as a sort of refuge.

I tried to encourage him with a smile, but it was a sick smile, because I was thinking I would be in his place soon.

"When did you last see Alfred Markham alive?" the captain asked quickly.

Poor Jerry went pale. "I—I guess it was when I looked out the door and saw him standing looking up at the moon. He and Bill had been quarreling, I—" He stopped short, biting his lip. He hadn't intended to drag me into it.

The captain raised his eyebrows. "Oh, so Mr. Strickland was out in the garden with him?" His paws clamped on the cigar.

"We—ell, no. He was just coming in. He came in and went upstairs. He didn't come downstairs again until—until after we found Al—dead."

"So you think he was upstairs when Markham was stabbed?"

"Yes, sir."

"Do you remember where the others were? Point out to me everyone you are sure was in this room all the time between when you looked out the door and Mr. St. Clair found the body."

Jerry indicated several of us.

"That won't do," said the captain. "We've got to be more sure of this. Was someone playing the piano? Tell me who it was, Mr. Montcalm."

Jerry swallowed, and nodded toward Muriel. The officer directed her to seat herself at the instrument. One by one he disposed of a dozen others that Jerry was sure of, placing them as they had been grouped around the piano singing. Then he began to question them, discovering who had stood at one side or in front or behind. In a few minutes the entire group with the exception of myself was accounted for.

The captain scratched his head. "So you've all got perfect alibis? When Markham was stabbed you were all around the piano singing—all but Bill Strickland, and he was upstairs. Are you sure no one left this group?"

"Didn't Jerry get a glass of water for someone?" Marge suggested.

"Where would he go for water?" the captain wanted to know.

Jerry didn't answer. It was Jack Berry who explained. "There was tea water on the table in the dining room."

Captain McDonald stepped into the hall below the stairs. "And to reach the dining room Mr. Montcalm had to go through this hall, passing the door into the court. I don't see the empty glass, either, in the dining room or clubroom. Mr. Montcalm, you didn't get a glass of water. You went out into the court."

Jerry's face was white. "But—but why would I go out into the court?"

"I'm asking the questions here. Did you?"

"Y-yes."

"What happened?"

"I stumbled over Al, lying on the walk beside the lily pond."

"Hell!" exclaimed the reporter. "And I was all set to run your little president's picture on the front page, as the guy who found the body."

The captain didn't notice the interruption. He was scowling at Jerry. "Why didn't you contradict St. Clair when he told me over the telephone that it was he who found Markham?"

"I—I wanted him to think he was the first one, sir. Nobody saw me in the court. If only someone had seen me there I could prove I didn't kill him! Now I—I can't!"

A murmur of consternation swept over the crowd.

McKee Home Party Given For Associate Of Store

Miss Sallie Johnson, Who Is Leaving City, Honored Guest

Mr. and Mrs. Howard McKee of North Court Street entertained a group of friends, Tuesday evening, the affair being arranged as a surprise party honoring Miss Sallie Johnson who will leave soon for Columbus. Miss Johnson, who has been employed in the office of the Circleville Cussins and Fearn store, has been transferred to the main office of the company in Columbus.

A contest, which formed the entertainment of the early evening, was won by Howard Richardson and Herbert Hammel.

After delightful refreshments were served, the guests played cards and other games. Miss Johnson received an attractive gift from the store group.

The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Donald Wolf, Miss Betty Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hammel, Mr. and Mrs. Cary Shasteen, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Schiering, Miss Johnson, Ned Dresbach, Howard Richardson, Ned Harden of the Circleville community and Miss Ann Gheen of Chillicothe.

Sorosis Club

The Sorosis Club met Monday at the home of Mrs. William Radcliff of Williamsport. Mrs. Howard Nessel, president, presided at the business session. The members voted to give the extra gifts left from a recent bridge party to the Williamsport Parent-Teacher Association for the bingo party which the group is sponsoring Friday night.

Miss Dorothy Jackson explained a novel way to answer the roll call, by answering with a statement pertaining to the program for that evening. This method will be used in the future.

Mrs. Archie Rawlinson was appointed third vice president.

Miss Virginia Smith, program leader for the evening, told of her work in the county and began her talk with a short history of "Mothers' Pensions."

Refreshments were served to 33 members and two guests, Mrs. Tom Gephart and Mrs. John Smith. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Esta Tipton, Mrs. Kenneth List, Miss Mary McCollister and Miss Helen West.

Mrs. Rawlinson and Mrs. Nessel presided at the attractive refreshment table.

Scioto Grange

Forty attended the meeting of Scioto Valley Grange Tuesday in the grange hall north of Ashville when the program was devoted to St. Patrick's Day. The program was arranged by members of group two with Thomas W. Purcell, chairman.

After "A Song for Ireland" was sung by the group, Irish jokes were told by J. C. McCord. Ralph Fisher gave an interesting history of St. Patrick, H. W. Wilcox including a poem in his short talk.

Mrs. J. W. Vause told of attending a recent reception for old folks in Columbus.

Light refreshments in keeping with the season were served by Mrs. Ben Vause and Mrs. Purcell.

Stooge Dance

One of the major social events of the school year, the Stooge Club dance, will be held in Memorial Hall auditorium Friday, April 5. Bill Kessler and his orchestra, a Lancaster band, has been engaged to play for the dancing, beginning at 8:30 p. m. and continuing until 12.

Loren Pace, a member of the Circleville High School faculty, plays with this musical unit, and sings as part of the entertainment furnished by the group.

Star Grange

After the ritualistic opening of Star Grange by Cecil Reid, master, candidates were balloted on during the business session Tuesday at Monroe school.

Members of Scioto Grange were guests for the evening, Dwight Bethards, Scioto master, presenting the grangers during the meeting.

Turney Glick, county deputy, and Mrs. Glick were present, Mr. Glick offering many suggestions during his informal talk concerning grange affairs.

Mrs. Garnett Porter, lecturer, was in charge of the literary program, Miss Glendal Dick singing "Mother MacChree" for the first number, "The Story of St. Pat-the margins or at one end of the vegetable garden. This allows a clear space for cultivating the rest of the garden area used for annual crops.

Asparagus beds, or pits, need thorough preparation, for they must remain in productive use for many years.

As shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph, an asparagus pit should be worked to a depth of at least twelve to fifteen inches. First, set the top soil to one side as the pit is dug. Then spade manure, leaf mold, rotted leaves or peat or, if available, a regular garden compost into the sub-soil. If manure is scarce, add a complete commercial fertilizer, one especially high in phosphorus and potash.

In order that the plants can have all the sunlight possible, dig the asparagus bed in a north-south direction. Prepare the pit as early in the Spring as the soil can be worked, and then allow it to settle until time for planting the asparagus roots.

GRANT SWEARINGEN FARM BOUGHT BY H. M. CRITES FOR $110 AN ACRE

PUBLIC AUCTION ATTRACTS HUGE BUYING CROWD

Property Granted After Revolutionary War Changes Hands

MANY CHATTELS OFFERED

Sale Declared To Be One Of Biggest Conducted In Recent Years

The Grant Swearingen property of 180 acres, one of Pickaway County's "show place" farms, was sold Tuesday to H. M. Crites, 624 South Court Street, at a public auction that climaxed one of the largest sales to be conducted in Pickaway County in recent years. The sale was held by Mrs. E. S. Thacher, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Grant Swearingen, to close the estate.

Mr. Crites paid $110 an acre for the 180-acre property known as "Tanglewood Farm", located on the Florence Chapel Pike, five and one-half miles west of Circleville in Jackson Township. The sale was conducted by Walter O. Bumgarner, auctioneer, with Wayne Hoover as clerk.

In Family Many Years

The farm bought by Mr. Crites had been in the Swearingen family for many years, having been granted to Captain Bedinger, great-grandfather of the late Grant Swearingen, for distinguished service during the Revolutionary War.

The sale attracted a large crowd of interested persons, many of whom attended it to offer bids on the land on the various chattels being offered. The chattel sale totaled $3,900. Stock was in good demand and brought fair prices, the top for Hereford cows being $82, and $100 being the peak for horses.

Four horses, 34 head of cattle, 79 hogs, a complete line of farm implements and the excellent farm, which includes some of the best agricultural land in the county, attracted the large crowd.

CAMERA CLUB TALKING OF SPRING EXHIBITION

Discussion of plans for a public showing of prints produced by members comprised part of the Tuesday evening session of the Circleville Camera Club conducted in Stedman's Studio, West Main Street. The question was considered at length with members deciding that a showing would probably be conducted sometime during the spring.

The club was visited by Ernie Marquand and Morris Unkerman, Columbus camera enthusiasts, who urged local members to exhibit prints at an Amateur Photographic Salon in Columbus May 1 to June 1 under sponsorship of the Gas Company.

The visitors also judged a display of prints taken to the meeting by the members, deciding that one owned by James Reichelderfer was best, one of George Gerhardt's was second, and one of Ruth Moffitt's was third.

The club's course in photography consisted of questions from a current photography magazine. Several of the members exhibited their cameras during the evening.

calmer vein, with Smith agreeing to junk the anti-strike amendment, Halleck finally consented to go along with him and Representative Harry Routzahn of Ohio, the other GOP member, on the remainder of the bill.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

All the Republican presidential candidates are privately wooing Joe Pew, multi-millionaire boss of Pennsylvania, who will control about 100 votes at the convention, but publicly they are keeping him at arm's length because he is political poison with the labor vote.

For a red-hot New Dealer, scrappy Maury Maverick is chalking up a strange record as mayor of San Antonio. He has balanced the city's budget, reduced taxes and put an end to labor strife.

One state where Senator Vandenberg is making little headway with Republican leaders is Indiana. Reason is that in 1938 he angered them by making a speech criticizing them for running a candidate against Democratic Senator Fred Van Nuys, who was on the White House purge list.

Third-term note: Of the Senate's 96 members, 26 have served three terms or more and two others, Connally of Texas and Townsend of Delaware, are running for their third term this year. Senator "Cotton Ed" Smith of South Carolina, who has indicated he will bolt if Roosevelt runs again, is serving his sixth term. In the House more than half the members, 244, have been in office three terms or more.

DOUBLE VICTORY

The White House inner circle scored not one but two victories in the bitter behind-the-scenes battle over the selection of trustees for the billion-dollar Associated Gas & Electric system.

First triumph of the New Dealers was in blocking the appointment of former Treasury Under Secretary John Hanes and having named instead, against strong opposition from powerful Wall Street interests, three pro-Holding Company Act liberals, Willard Thorp, Dennis J. Driscoll and Walter M. Pollack.

The second triumph arises out of the first. By installing these three allies at the head of the giant utility, the New Dealers gave the SEC a tremendous weapon in its new campaign to enforce the so-called "death sentence" provision of the Holding Company Act, which requires utilities to simplify ("integrate") their financial structures along regional lines.

The SEC faces rough going anyway, but it would be a lot tougher if a hostile trustee was running the mighty AG&E, which under its original operators was a violent foe of federal regulation. Now, however, the SEC is assured that the utility will cooperate to act as a model for corporate simplification. This will be invaluable in bringing indirect pressure on other top-heavy utility empires to fall into line.

WOMAN ADMITS CHECK FORGERY, GOES TO JAIL

The arrest Tuesday afternoon of Mrs. Stella Birchwell Smith, 28, 127 Pincney Street, by Chief of Police William McCrady halted a series of forged checks that had been passed recently to Circleville merchants.

Mrs. Smith pleaded guilty to the charges on the two affidavits filed by the Merit Shoe store and the Mykranitz Drug Company. She was bound to the grand jury under a $2,000 bond on each count and was remanded to the county jail when she defaulted.

The checks were passed for Mrs. Smith by several school children who had been bribed with the offer of a dime reward for making the purchases for her and returning the merchandise and the change. Mrs. Smith forged the name of Mrs. L. H. Mebs, proprietor of the Franklin Inn, to the checks.

Police Chief McCrady conducted a thorough investigation Monday and Tuesday after he had received reports from Circleville merchants that forged checks were being passed by boys of school age. Five boys identified Mrs. Smith for the police as the woman who had given them the checks to make the purchases.

Accompanying the checks were letters asking the store keepers to give the requested merchandise to the children since she was unable herself to make the purchases.

Mrs. Smith's father is at present serving a term at the Ohio Penitentiary in Columbus for forgery.

LUTHERAN RITES OPEN WEDNESDAY AT 7:30 O'CLOCK

The Lenten-Easter cantata "Redemption's Song," by Holton, to be presented Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. by the junior choir of Trinity Lutheran Church, is arranged in 10 separate parts as follows: 1. "Mac" would laugh if you called him a "genius"

"Mac has a genius," a customer said the other day, "for taking a personal interest in my car—he treats it as if it were going to be his car day after tomorrow!"

So many of our SOHIOANS seem to have that spark of genius for truly friendly service—and each is striving to develop it in his own way.

How do they do it? Sometimes with a trouble-saving suggestion, a little extra effort to please, a little more thorough cleaning of the windshield or the headlamp, a more conscientious checking of tires—in any one of a dozen ways. Whatever it is in each case, you always drive away with the feeling that you get a little bit more than your "money's worth!"

HUTCHINSON TO START

LAKELAND, Fla., March 13—With Freddie Hutchinson, Seattle right hander slated to make his 1940 debut, the Detroit Tigers today were off to Bradenton to play an exhibition game with the Boston Bees. John Gorsica and an as yet unnamed hurler will also face the Bees. The trio will seek to put the Tigers back in the winning column after their 9-5 loss to Brooklyn yesterday at Clearwater.

Europe, according to an editorial, is sick of war. But not sick enough, apparently, to obey the doctor's orders.
